Suicide Wave Hits Vienna in Midst of Disorders; Plea Dispatched for Peace.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN — Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels this afternoon issued a brief appeal to the German populace to desist from further anti-Jewish demonstrations after synagogues in many cities had been burned, or badly damaged.

"The justifiable and understandable indignation of the German people over the cowardly Jewish murder of a German diplomat in Paris has resulted during the past night in extensive demonstrations," said Goebbels.

He referred to the killing of Ernst Vom Rath, secretary of the Paris embassy, by a 17-year-old Polish Jew who had lived in Germany.

Windows Smashed.

Shop windows were smashed in several German centers. Synagogues were broken into. Fires raged in seven of the 20 Berlin synagogues as well as in Munich and Dresden synagogues.

Crowds, angry and plunder-bent, pushed police aside in Friedrichstrasse, in downtown Berlin, and surged into the arcade between that important avenue and famed Unter Den Linden. The arcade houses many Jewish shops.

Vienna dispatches reported the total or partial destruction of all the 21 synagogues in the city. Vienna Jews said 22 of their number had committed suicide in despair. One synagogue in the Austrian capital was blown up and three others wrecked while Storm Troopers compelled Jews to begin tearing down another.

Police Helpless.

In Berlin a mob had jammed Friedrichstrasse since rioting began early in the morning. Police were helpless against a looting crowd, angered by the killing of Ernst Vom Rath, secretary of the Paris embassy, by Herschel Grynszpan. Vom Rath, shot Monday, died yesterday.

Police said no extra officers were available to handle the Friedrichstrasse mob, as all had been sent to other trouble spots, especially to the burning synagogues.

Roosevelt Stays Non-Committal On Election Outcome

HYDE PARK, N. Y.,—(AP)—President Roosevelt, non-committal on the Republican congressional and gubernatorial gains in Tuesday's elections, ends another eight-day stay here today to return to Washington by special train for Armistice day services.

If the election results dealt a severer blow than Mr. Roosevelt had expected, it was not reflected in a statement last night by Secretary Marvin McIntyre, who replied, when asked for presidential comment on "Democratic losses:"

"He (the president) said there would be no comment. He said he was feeling very cheerful and everything is grand."

The president topped a rather quiet day by making public a lengthy report from Administrator Elmer F. Andrews showing between 30,000 and 50,000 industrial workers had been laid off after the federal minimum wage and maximum hour law went into effect, Oct. 24.

The report said this was less than one-half of one per cent of the workers coming under the act, which applies only to inter-state industries, and about one-tenth of one per cent of all gainful workers.

Mark Time On 2 Issues Ok'd at Polls

Mayor Studies Law on Park Board; County Delays T. B. Plan.

Authorities of both Richland county and the city of Mansfield were marking time on two proposals approved by the voters in Tuesday's election.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter, empowered to create a non-partisan park commission as a result of the 2 to 1 passage of the park board proposal by voters of the city, said he planned to study the law before making his appointments.

Although well pleased with the voters' approval of a half mill levy to provide funds for care of the county's tuberculosis, county commissioners said they could do little to set up the new program until the levy begins to produce additional funds after the first of the year.

Favors 5-Man Board.

Mayor Hunter said he "couldn't be reconciled" to a three-member parks board, as designated in the plan, and indicated he would ask for a five-member board instead.

Assistant County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz pointed out, however, that the plan as presented to voters calls for a three-member board of either women or men.

The mayor, who will appoint the board on the recommendation of civic and parks organizations in the city, said he could see no reason for limiting the membership to three when similar park commissions in other Ohio cities have five members. The park board plan was approved Tuesday by a vote of 7,628 to 3,804. The board will handle the administration of the city's parks, taking the responsibility from the service-safety director.

The county will begin collecting funds from the half-mill levy in the first half year real estate tax collection in 1939. Funds will be available probably in February and until then the county must use its own funds to meet the expense of caring for tuberculosis patients in sanitariums and rest homes, C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, said.

The additional levy, which received 14,414 votes Tuesday as compared with 7,725 against it, will provide $45,000 a year for five years for the anti-tuberculosis program.

BUDGE GOES PRO

Tennis Champ Signs $75,000 Exhibition Contract.

However, the Oakland, Calif., star also has the privilege of taking a percentage of the gate if the percentage should come to more than $75,000.

APPROVE PLANS FOR JUNIOR HIGH

School Officials Ready to Ask Bids on $450,000 Johnny Appleseed Building.

Approving plans for the new Johnny Appleseed junior high school to be built at Cline avenue and Wood street, the Mansfield board of education prepared today to ask for contractors' bids for construction of the $450,000 building as a part of the city's million-dollar school building program.

Plans for the building, drawn by Althouse and Jones, Mansfield architects, were approved last night by the school board. Supt. W. L. Miller and W. L. Althouse took the plans to Columbus today to seek the final approval of PWA officials.

If the plans are approved as anticipated, Dr. John H. Bristor, clerk of the board, said advertising for bids would start today or Friday. Bids will be received until Dec. 9.

Construction of the building is expected to get under way before the first of the year. The building is the second unit of the city school building program.

Work on the $25,000 Senior high school shop addition, started two weeks ago, had been halted today while J. W. Ness, contractor, awaited approval by PWA of minor changes in specifications for the building.

The school board last night ordered the plans altered to include two more doors and the use of fireproof materials in the construction of the paint room in the building. The changes will be made to comply with the state building code for schools.

MOONEY PARDON STEP NEARER

California Elects Olson Governor; He Promises Aid.

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—With the election of Culbert Olson as governor of California, the pardon for which Tom Mooney, world-famed prisoner, has waited 22 years loomed nearer today.

Governor-elect Olson issued a formal statement in which he strongly indicated he would grant Mooney a pardon from San Quentin prison where the latter has spent the past two decades for his part in San Francisco's 1916 preparedness day bombing outrage in which ten people were killed and scores injured.

Olson reaffirmed his belief in Mooney's innocence.

VAN NUYS LEADS

Tops Indiana Foe by 2,000 Votes; Still Counting.

INDIANAPOLIS — (AP) — Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, Democrat, appeared re-elected today in his close contest with Raymond E. Willis, Angola Republican. Van Nuys had a lead of more than 2,000 votes with only scattered precincts in counties in which he had been running ahead yet to report.

With 3,745 of the state's 3,872 precincts reported, the vote stood: Van Nuys, 755,338; for Willis 753,224.

Republicans captured control of the Indiana house of representatives for the first time in 10 years—by a one-member margin—and elected city administrations in all parts of the state.

An Indiana congressional delegation half Republican was assured with election of six G. O. P. representatives.

Veterans Arrange Elaborate Observance Tomorrow of 20th Anniversary.

ALL PUBLIC OFFICES CLOSE

Aerial Bombs to Signal Start of Ceremonies in Morning; Parade in Evening.

An Armistice day celebration such as Mansfield has not seen since the first one 20 years ago will be staged in the city tomorrow.

All public offices, including the postoffice, will be closed and the day's activities will bring out every veteran's organization in the city.

At 11 minutes to 11 a. m. a barrage of aerial bombs will be set off, one a minute, until the hour when the historical armistice document was signed in Paris. From 11 until 11:02 there will be a period of silence over the city which every place of business and every citizen has been asked to observe.

Ceremony at Monument.

The first program of the day will be at the doughboy monument in Central park, which will commemorate both the signing of the armistice and the burial 17 years ago of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery.

R. B. Gardner, vice commander of the department of Ohio, American Legion, will read the address which Atty C. H. Workman delivered on Nov. 11, 1921, when the dougboy monument, presented to the city by the Jared Mansfield chapter, D. A. R., was dedicated simultaneously with the burial of the Unknown Soldier. Atty. Workman will be introduced.

Immediately after the services at the doughboy monument, the 40 et 8 organization will conduct its ritual for the Unknown Soldier at the west side of Central park, with Herbert H. Gibbs, chef de gare, in charge.

OFF-YEAR SWEEP SPURS DRIVE TO WIN PRESIDENCY

Capture 11 New Governorships, 77 More House Seats In Unexpected Triumph; Dems Declare Losses Those of Coat-Tail Riders.

(By Associated Press)

The Democratic and Republican parties began a two-year struggle for power today as the aftermath of political upheavals in Tuesday's elections.

With 11 new governorships, eight new senate seats and at least 77 more house seats firmly in their grasp, Republicans turned from ballot counting with the avowed intention of trying to take over the presidency in 1940.

Democrats, characterizing many of their losses as inevitable casualties to Roosevelt coat-tail riders, minimized Republican claims of widespread anti-New Deal sentiment. They were equally determined to use all the vast resources at their command to continue national domination beyond the next two years.

There was only one major race not definitely decided today and that appeared to be going to a Democrat. The contest was in Indiana where Sen. Frederick Van Nuys (D.) had pulled slightly ahead of Raymond E. Willis (R.), the few unreported precincts are located in counties in which the Democrat has been running ahead. After a see-saw battle Sen. Guy M. Gillette (D.) apparently had won re-election in Iowa where revisions of unofficial vote tabulations increased his lead over former Sen. Lester J. Dickinson (R.)

Aside from these, the latest returns from the 47 state elections gave this picture of the overturns:

Republicans who went into the campaign with only seven governorships came out with 18. Of those won Tuesday, nine previously had been held by Democrats, one by a Farmer-Laborite and one by a Progressive.

The ballot harvest gave the Republicans 11 senate seats, including eight held by Democrats. In the new senate, beginning Jan. 3, they will have 23 seats, compared to 15 presently held.

With all but eight house races decided, the Republicans had elected 16 members, compared to 88 in the present house. (There was one Republican vacancy.) Of the seats they picked up, 70 came from the Democrats, five from the Progressives and two from the Farm-Labor party.

Republicans counted most heavily on gubernatorial rather than congressional gains for advancing their cause toward 1940. Control of state administrations will give them patronage to rebuild party fences in disrepair since 1932.

Political leaders offered contrasting interpretations of the election results, first reversal for the Democrats since 1930. Republican Chairman John Hamilton said the vote showed "A widespread repugnance toward governmental incompetence, Maladministration and callous political corruption."

'New Deal' Protest.

"These Republican gains reflected a determination on the part of millions of our citizens," he added, "to put an end to constant experimental legislation which has held back economic recovery and kept the country in a hub-bub."

Democratic Chairman James A. Farley pointed out that his party had won substantial majorities in the senate and the house despite the decline in numbers.

"I think the outcome justifies the statement that the country as a whole is still strongly behind the humanitarian policies of President Roosevelt," he said.

Speaker Bankhead (D-Ala.) said the turnover was a "normal reaction to five or six years of Democratic administration."

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) called the election "an amazing defeat for the Roosevelt party and program." Former President

HEADACHE: Handing Out Plums, Keeping All Happy, Task

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—The headache period began today for the Republican state leadership. Facing Governor-elect John W. Bricker was the task of handing out patronage appointments without making any "good Republicans" disgruntled.

There was every prospect that Bricker's advisers, the governor-elect and those who will be clamoring for political "plums" will be able to get together over the conference table without any rifts as serious as the one that hit the Democratic party after the primary.

But that isn't the half of it. On Jan. 9, 1939, when Bricker walks into the governor's executive offices in the state house to take over the reins of office from Governor Davey his administration and his new legislature will be staring problems of financing schools and relief square in the face.

There was little likelihood that Davey would call a special "lame duck" session to see what can be done about the $16,000,000 debt of the schools, but if a session were called, the out-going members of the general assembly could hardly be expected to accomplish much. They figure the job is up to the Republicans now.

Bricker was given splendid endorsement by the state electorate and will take office with the as-

FRESHMEN: New Lawmakers Face Relief, Revenue Puzzle

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The Democratic-controlled Ohio general assembly which for two years has tussled with poor relief and financial problems will turn the chore over next January to a Republican legislature composed largely of unseasoned lawmakers.

Only 43 representatives and nine senators of the 1937-38 legislature will return to the state house next year, complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's election showed today.

Facing the 93rd general assembly, in which Republicans will occupy 101 of the 135 house seats and 28 of the 35 senatorial posts, will be the task of raising possibly $30,000,000 or more for poor relief and public schools alone.

The abrupt about-face in the legislative political control wrested from surprised Democrats the balance of power held by 105 of their party in the house and 31 in the senate which took office two years ago.

Returning to the senate next year will be Don R. Thomas, Dayton, Democrat; Lawrence A. Kane, Hamilton county Republican; Maurice W. Lipscher, Youngstown Democrat; Tom L. Gallagher, William Boyd and William Zoul, all Cleveland Democrats.

Tom Jones, Middleport Republican; W. F. Garver, Millersburg Democrat; Abe Laird, New Philadelphia Democrat; Fred L. Adams, Bowling Green Republican, and A. D. Baumhart, jr., Vermilion Republican.

The house will see among familiar faces those of George J. Harter, blind Akron Democrat; Ralph C. Lutz, Richland Democrat; W. H. Whetro, Ironton labor organizer and Democrat, and Gus Kasch, Akron Democrat who has introduced more measures than any other member without seeing any of them passed.

1918—THEN— —NOW—1938

By JOE ALEX MORRIS
(Copyright 1938 by the United Press)

Millions of persons will pause for a moment of silence tomorrow on the 20th anniversary of an armistice in a war that never ended.

Every year since 1918 they have stood in silence at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month to commemorate the sacrifice of other millions who died that the world might be freed from military terrorism, made safe for democracy.

Tomorrow for the first time in two decades there stands out in bold relief the consequences of that moment when a numbing silence settled over trenches still wet with crimson mud.

Nineteen-eighteen was a year of contrasting triumphs and defeats; of rising hopes and black despair.

In that year, Marshal Ferdinand Foch sat in a railroad dining car in Compiegne forest and coldly dictated the armistice—a brief cessation of hostilities—which Germany accepted to avoid devastation of the fatherland.

(In 1938, Fuehrer Adolf Hitler stood before a big map in Munich's new fuehrerhaus and shrilly dictated peace terms by which Great Britain and France could avoid the bombs of a Nazi air fleet.)

In that fateful year, Kaiser Wilhelm II, symbol of a military might against which the world had rebelled, fled through the rain into exile. And in Berlin a hungry German Socialist, interrupted at his meager dinner by still hungrier crowds outside his window, proclaimed the German republic.

(In 1938, Germany's Republicans were in prison or in exile and Hitler, as the absolute ruler of a totalitarian nation, defied and derided the world's democracies.)

In the year 1918, an embittered old Frenchman named Georges Clemenceau prepared to direct the breaking up of German frontiers, the destruction of her armed strength for all time and the drawing of a bayonet-studded circle of foes around what was left to make certain the reich would never rise again.

(In 1938, the third reich burst the last bonds of the Versailles treaty and became the greatest military and political force on the European continent, a nation of 80,000,000 persons and 225,000 square miles.)

Motley Another Slick Back

He'll Cause Tygers Trouble

McKinley No One-Man Team

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

MANSFIELD high football followers have witnessed a number of slick backs romp against the Tygers this autumn. Frank Shimala of Hammond, Ind., George Schlusser of Massillon, Ben Fleming of Sandusky, Lloyd Miller of Akron Kenmore and Harold Bliss of Shelby are just a few of the brilliant ball luggers that the Tygers have been forced to exercise their tackling skill against this campaign.

Saturday a back just as spectacular as any witnessed in previous games will be glimpsed by those who accompany the Tygers to Canton to open a new gridiron rivalry.

He is Marion Motley, and, according to what we've heard and read, the Canton colored star is one of the greatest backs in Ohio high school circles this year.

Although weighing 195 pounds, Motley can step as fast as any ball player on the McKinley squad Due to his speed and shiftiness, he is particularly effective in the open. The fact that he has scored 100 points so far this year against strong opposition testifies for his ability.

Motley is the young man who is haunting Coach Russ Murphy this week as the Tygers are going about their work in preparation for the Canton tilt.

Mansfield was unable to stop Shimala, Fleming and Miller, three of the outstanding running backs it has faced this year, and so Murphy has reasons for fearing Motley.

Murphy is practically faced with the same situation as were rival coaches whose teams tackled the Tygers in the days of "Si" Robinson.

The Tyger leader is stressing defensive work this week. But he put the same emphasis on this department of play in other games, too, and the Tygers were handed several terrific whippings. He is hoping that his instructions bear better results this week.

* * * * *

Bulldogs Pack Speed as Well as Weight.

WHILE Motley is the outstanding member of the undefeated Canton eleven, McKinley is not a one-man team. The Canton club is not only good-sized, but experienced. Canton is also considerably faster than the ordinary heavy team.

There may be some question as to the Bulldogs' chances of trimming Massillon, but Canton stacks up as next to the strongest club the Mansfielders have engaged this year.

The Bulldogs' record indicates the type of competition the Tygers run against Saturday. Canton opened with an easy 48 to 6 victory over Canton Lehman. Lehman has lost only one other game, we believe. Then the Bulldogs walloped Akron South, 32 to 0. South is one of the stronger Akron clubs this year.

McKinley had more than a picnic with Erie, Pa., academy, which always is represented by a winning club, and it was lucky to come out with a 7 to 6 triumph. After Huntington, W. Va., was taken into camp by a 19 to 6 margin, Canton walloped Elmira, N. Y., 52 to 6. A 33 to 26 victory was registered in a spectacular tussle with the Alliance Aviators, whose only other record mar is a defeat by Massillon. And Saturday McKinley trounced Steubenville, 32 to 0.

The Canton team consists of virtually the same lineup which carried the Bulldogs to a perfect record until the Massillon game last year. Massillon trimmed Canton last year, and the Tigers may do it again this year. But it need not be stressed that Mansfield faces a tough assignment Saturday.

Ohio State Should Come Back Against Illini.

HERE'S what'll happen on the gridiron this week if we're picking 'em right: OHIO—Ohio U. will shoot down the Dayton Flyers Wittenberg's Lutherans will not need the help of a prayer to beat Kenyon, Kent State will plow under Baldwin-Wallace, Ohio Northern will come back at the expense of Mt. Uunion, Wooster will win a share of the Ohio conference crown at the expense of Heidelberg Findlay will tumble Ashland, Muskingum will wallop Marietta, Capital will edge Otterbein, Denison will weaken the sting of the Wittenberg trimming by defeating Oberlin, Marshall will halt its losing streak at Cincinnati, Miami will lasso the Case Rough Riders, Centre will topple Ohio Wesleyan Western Reserve will turn back Carroll despite the grand play of Mansfield's Ed Willard. Toledo will come into its own against Akron, Bowling Green will make Hiram yelp, Bluffton will take the measure of Assumption. Youngstown will rout the Clairon Teachers and Transylvania will cross Rio Grande.

EAST—Yale's Bulldogs to trim the Princeton Tiger, Carnegie Tech will make its Pittsburgh win look good by beating Duquesne. Columbia will sink Navy. Dartmouth will make it a bad day for Cornell. Pennsylvania will show up Penn State, Rutgers will take another over Lafayette and Villanova will upset Temple.

INTERSECTIONAL—Chicago should do right well for itself against the College of Pacific, Fordham will smash North Carolina, Harvard will get a bite of Virginia "ham," it's a pity that Nebraska has to meet Pittsburgh this week. . . . Detroit will outpoint N. C. State. Duke will mop up Syracuse.

BIG TEN—It'll be Ohio State over Illinois, but you pick the margin: Indiana is overdue, Iowa will take it on the chin, Northwestern looks to tough for Michigan, and, as stated previously, it will be Minnesota over Notre Dame.

SOUTH—Louisiana over Auburn, Alabama over Georgia Tech. Arkansas over Southern Methodist. Rice over Texas Aggies Texas Christian over Texas, Tulane over Georgia and Tennessee over Vanderbilt

FAR WEST: Wisconsin over U. C. L. A., California over Oregon, Southern California over Washington.

The record to date. Wins—109; losses—33; ties—6; percentage .768.

THERE will be big doings over in the neighboring city of Bellville along about 3 p. m. Friday.

That is the time Bellville's rampaging Blue Jays and Madison's high-scoring Rams will collide in what is the most important Friday afternoon game on the Ohio schedule to football partisans in this vicinity.

Powers on Grid.

It is not only important because it will pit two of the strongest Class B clubs in the state against each other, but for the fact that it will undoubtedly determine the Mid-State league championship.

Friday's game closes Bellville's schedule unless it re-schedules a postponed game with Mt. Gilead. It is Madison's semi-final appearance. So, according to the way it looks now, to the winner will go the spoils.

Bellville is unbeaten this season. The Rams' only defeat was administered by the Class A Mt. Vernon club. Madison has beaten its Class B foes in fairly easy fashion.

One of the largest crowds ever to pack around the Bellville gridiron are expected to see the men of Royd Hodge and Al Fendrick battle it out Friday, and the outcome appears a toss-up.

Both coaches prefer a dry field for their battle, but are prepared if conditions are inclement. Madison would probably hold an advantage if the gridiron is wet because it packs more weight.

The Rams are exceptionally fast, but they meet a team in Bellville which the experts say is even faster. Bellville possesses three of the most spectacular backs in this vicinity in Russ Sheriff, Beryl Balliett and Howard Hamilton. Balliett is Bellville's scoring leader with 72 points. Hamilton and Sheriff are not far behind with 57 and 56, respectively

Madison is also well blessed with outstanding backfield material. Heading the troupe is Gene Harmon, who is second in the state individual scoring race. Joe Miller, captain and fullback, is the sparkplug of the Rams' machine. Madison's lineup also includes the highest scoring lineman in the state in Bill Wilkins, who has tallied 88 points.

Bellville's chief threat is its running game, but it also can throw when necessary. Palm does most of the Blue Jays' pitching. Madison's air game is little less spectacular than its running attack. Harmon and Miller divide the throwing duties for the Rams.

Anxious to Win.

Hodge's team is in splendid condition for the tussle, and is anxious to win this game to square accounts for past whippings. Bellville has not beaten Madison since 1930 when the Blue Jays won by a 41 to 0 score. It is the only victory scored by a Bellville team over a team coached by Fendrick.

The defending Mid-State league champions defeated Bellville, 19 to 12, last fall.

And Pitt Lost

This might explain why Carnegie Tech beat Pittsburgh 20-10 in the year's worst football upset. Marshall Goldberg, Pitt backfield ace, was put out of the game after a few minutes of play by a leg injury. Here he is, watching — and a very dejected young man he is, too.

The teams entered are the Blue Goose Sohioans, Musille Cogars, Raemelton Farms, Miller Dairys, Augustine Service station and Red Billiards, who won the championship last winter.

Wentz announces that another meeting will be held at the Friendly House to prepare for the season next Wednesday night.

Illinois Due To Pull Upset

Ohio State May Take It on Chin Again Saturday.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — (AP) — The Big Ten conference already has had its share of football upsets, yet Ohio State and the experts alike are keeping a wary eye on Illinois this week.

Coach Bob Zuppke and his Illini usually are good for at least one a year, as Northwestern can well attest for 1937. Since the Indiana triumph no longer is regarded in that light, it leaves the Illini still one to go.

They face Ohio State Saturday and would like nothing better than to erase the Buckeyes' last title possibilities. This may prove quite an assignment for the smaller Illini who also lack speed. Except for Jimmy Strasbaugh, however, opponents also have caught the Buckeyes slow afoot.

So the Illini have been drilling for almost two weeks on means of offsetting bulk and possibly a revival of the Buckeye razzle dazzle Yesterday they turned to offense and in 20 minutes had counted five touchdowns against the freshmen.

Illinois will be strengthened by the return of Mel Brewer, hard blocking quarterback, who still is the team's leading scorer although he has not seen action since the Indiana game.

Meanwhile, Ohio State continued to stress forward passing,

Chalks Up First Win In Political League.

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Baseball's immortal Walter Johnson —who won more games than any pitcher in the history of the American League—has chalked up his first victory in the political league.

Running as a Republican for commissioner in nearby Montgomery county, Md., the one-time big train of the diamond defeated his Democratic opponent, Clay Plummer.

It was Johnson's first time at bat in a try for public office, so that makes his average 1.000—the sweet dream of every baseballer. "I'm mighty glad," drawled the soft-spoken, gangling fellow who's generally at a loss for words, "Yes, sir, I'm mighty glad."

Unbeaten Elevens Collide

Galion, Cleveland Scene of Games Between Teams Still Undefeated.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Two clashes between undefeated teams with impressive records top the week-end scholastic gridiron drama in Ohio.

All unknowingly, the schedule-makers way last year decreed that Shelby should play at Galion and Cleveland Rhodes and Cleveland West Tech meet in Cleveland on the second week-end in November.

And all four teams come to these games with four of the best records in the state as the 1938 gridiron show entered its semi-final and final acts for most elevens.

The Shelby-Galion battle will bring together two evenly matched crews, located only 11 miles apart on the map, in a game almost equal in importance to the Canton McKinley-Massillon tilt Nov. 19 which probably will decide the mythical state championship.

Galion has tallied 213 points and allowed 63 in winning seven contests this fall while Shelby rolled up 214 points and yielded only 13 in eight victories. Six of their opponents this fall have been identical, and the comparative scores give little edge to either team.

Van Wert, the only school in the state with an uncrossed goal line, will go after victory No. 8 against Celina.

Teams Which Played To Tie Tangle Again.

Adams Bantams and South Akron Merchants, who battled to a scoreless tie, will meet again Sunday, Nov. 20, Alexander Hamilton, business manager of the Mansfield eleven, announced today. The game will be played at the Fairground.

Whether the Mansfield team will play this week-end was not announced

GARCIA ALREADY LOOKS TOWARD MIDDLE CROWN

NEW YORK—(NS)—If the fight runs according to the probable betting odds and Ceferino Garcia beats Henry Armstrong for the welterweight championship in their postponed match on Nov. 25, the Filipino then will seek to win the middleweight crown, his manager, George Parnassus, emphasized today.

SNEAD HOLDS 1-STROKE LEAD OVER HENRY PICARD

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va.—(NS)—Sam Snead held a one-stroke margin over the field as the final two rounds of play in the White Sulphur Springs open golf tourney got under way today.

Snead had a 36-hole total of 136, followed by Henry Picard's 137. Winnie Cleckner Rolls 716 In Doubles League

Shoots Games of 234, 246 and 236 to Lead Scoring In Opening Night of New Circuit.

RAPPING out games of 234, 246 and 236 for a 716 total, Winnie Cleckner helped inaugurate bowling in the City Class A doubles league in a spectacular fashion at the Meder alleys last night.

Cleckner and his teammate, Swank, who produced a 479, came through with an 1195 total to take three games from Forsythe and Funston.

Brig Young and Pete Grohol blasted the wood for the high two-man score of 1180, but took only one game from the Dale Cleckner-Cheney duo. Young rolled 204-216-215—635, and Cleckner, Winnie's brother, walloped the wood for a 242 and 633.

Sonny Meder collected 629 sticks as he and his partner, Burdett, added two wins at the expense of Duke Weber and Mike Meder.

Applan and Carl Heilman won two tilts from Geiger and Shepherd in the other match.

Four Quintets Hold Berths In City Loop

Women to Be Admitted Free on Opening Night.

Things began to take definite shape in the City Class A Basketball league at a meeting of league officials and team managers at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

Four teams have joined the ranks of the city's premier cage circuit, and judging from the tentative personnel announced by the managers, it looks like one of the closest races in recent years. Only one team is needed to complete the roster.

Sports Return.

Heading the list of quintets is Yuncker Sports, defending champions. Although Manager Jimmy Beres doesn't have the talent of last year's sensational outfit available, the team stacks up with the best in the league.

Another team that is expected to be heard from is the Herrick-Hi-Speeds, while the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company combine will probably develop into a real title contender. Ed Gibson is rounding up a team, but as yet has no backer.

In the Yuncker club will be Harold Hayfer, Jack Miner, John Schuster, Glen Irey and possibly Al Stickler, all City league veterans, and John Reece, Lexington high school coach.

Carrying the Hi-Speeds' colors will be Gene Brandon, Clarence Herrick, Harold Boliantz, City league stars, Delnor Goldsmith, Galion star, and George Nanna, six-foot-five center, erstwhile Akron Industrial league ace. Earl Herrick will act as player-manager.

The Westinghouse roster is not complete, but such city loop stars as Harry Ross, George Bosko, Bob Shade, Ray Friday and Steve Voelker are likely to be in the lineup on the opening night.

East End Team Plays Twice Over Week-End.

The undefeated East End All-Stars will play two games over the week-end. The East End eleven will face the North End Lions at League park at 2:30 p. m. Saturday and engage the unbeaten Forest Gardens at the Taylor-Dise field at 2 p. m. Sunday.

Play With Club.

On Gibson's club are Bob Boyd and Norm Lerner, stars in the Church Class A league last season; Herb Hazlett, Ed Clemons, Dick Fogle, Howard Richards, Harold LeMunyon and Hugh Hamon.

League members last night voted to designate the circuit's opening night as "ladies' night," admitting all ladies free when accompanied by an escort. President Vern Jones said that league games may be held on Monday nights, although no specific date will be announced until after a meeting at the Y next Wednesday night.

Coals Face Tough Game With Lorain Sunday

ONE of the toughest halfbacks the Mansfield semi-pro eleven encountered last year will be on hand to cause more trouble Sunday afternoon when the Lorain Collegians come to League park to tangle with the Kallmerten & Baer Coals.

He is Eddie Dominski, a product of Lorain high school, who was a member of the great high school teams which included Stan Pincura.

Dominski is one of a number of former Lorain high school players to romp at League park with the Lorain aggregation. The team has been intact for four years.

Coach Gip Miller regards the Lorain team the toughest the Coals will meet this year. The only blots on Lorain's record were administered by the South Akron Awnings and Minerva Merchants, both undefeated.

The Mansfield team won its first game of the season last Sunday when it trimmed the Avondale Theaters of Columbus.

PRESIDENT OF TURKEY DIES

KEMAL ATATURK
(By Associated Press)

ISTANBUL — Kemal Ataturk, creator and president of modern Turkey who lived hard and ruled hard, died today. He was 58 years old.

Ataturk, long ill, succumbed to cirrhosis of the liver at 9:05 a. m. (2:05 a. m. EST) after having clung to life longer than his doctors had expected. He apparently had been gaining strength after a grave attack in mid-October but suffered a relapse.

Ataturk lived hard. He often worked or listened to musicians all night. For many years he was a chain cigaret smoker, a marathon coffee drinker and celebrated often with champagne and raki liquo which was banned for British troops in Palestine during the World war.

He ruled hard as the iron-fisted "Grey Wolf" who forged a strong new westernized state out of the war-crushed ruins of the Ottoman empire.

A huge throng sadly watched the flag outside being lowered to half staff.

Uncertainty existed as to the successor of the man who took command of the shrunken Ottoman empire after the World war and built a new, strong nation according to the western pattern.

Among those prominently mentioned were Gen. Ismet Ineunu, a soldier and politician, and Field Marshal Fevni Pehakaj, chief of the Turkish general staff.

MEAT COOKERY HER SPECIALTY

Miss Chambers to Offer New Recipes, Variety of Dishes at Cooking School.

Patie de fois gras and parfaits may be suitable for serving at a pink tea, but when it comes to cooking for men, roast beef, tender chops, and sizzling steaks are much better bets. For that reason Miss Ruth Chambers, home economist and expert on cookery, who will be in charge of the News-Journal Cooking School which will open at 9 a. m. next Tuesday at the Ohio theater, will tell brides, homemakers of many years, and even professional cooks a few tricks about tickling the palates of hard-to-please husbands, sons and sweethearts.

Miss Chambers, who is a member of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, is an expert at meat cookery. During the cooking school sessions she will show Mansfield women how to prepare and cook a variety of meat cuts. In addition she will offer several recipes for new meat dishes which literally melt in your mouth.

If the man in your life gets tired of the same old food, here is a chance in a lifetime to learn a few new tricks to enliven the daily menu.

But by no means will Miss Chambers devote herself entirely to the preparation of meats. For she has in her file of recipes directions for making a never-fail flaky pie crust, cake recipes, and directions for that controversial food—the doughnut.

GALION—No one was injured when cars driven by Evelyn Shaw of Galion and J. V. Watts of Bucyrus collided at the intersection of South Market and Walnut streets. Miss Shaw was driving a car owned by Millford Dukeman. The cars were only slightly damaged.

STAGE PARADE

BUCYRUS — Republicans, jubilant over Tuesday's election, took occasion Wednesday night to celebrate by parading through Bucyrus' downtown streets, led by the Bucyrus High schol band.

The parade was arranged by the Republican executive committee, headed by Victor Vollrath, and the Bucyrus Republican club, headed by A. E. Socin.

THEATERS

All producers in Hollywood are turning envious eyes toward Universal, for that studio is in the position of a man caught out in a rain of soup with a very large bowl in his hand. It has a film, almost completed, which it can release under the title of "Mars Attacks the World," thus cutting in on the tremendous publicity given the "end of the world" broadcast of a week ago. It is one of the Flash Gordon series, but with a few additions, can be built up into a smooth feature. The picture will be launched with a million dollars worth of publicity to the good.

Stage Show.

Tomorrow the Madison presents its first musical revue in several months when the Folies de Paree appears there under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. It is a girl and music show, with an all-girl swing band, a beauty chorus, dancers and variety acts. On the screen will be one of the Torchy Blane series with Glenda Farrell and Barton MacLane The bill is booked for one day only.

* * *

Trailer Romance.

Enthusiasts of travel by trailer will find a lot to interest them in "Listen Darling," the film with Freddie Bartholomew and Judy Garland, which opens today at the Ohio, for much of the action takes place in a trailer in which the two youngsters "kidnap" Mary Astor and set out to catch up with an illusive romance for her. Walter Pidgeon is the objective of their pursuit

A Crosby Film.

Bing Crosby and Martha Raye in "Double or Nothing" will be offered at the Majestic Friday and Saturday, with the usual western film for a second feature. "Double or Nothing" is the fantastic tale of an eccentric millionaire who threw away 25 $100 bills in order to find an honest man, and then gave the finders an opportunity to double $5,000 in order to inherit all of his money. Mary Carlisle provides heart interest.

* * *

Perpetual Freshmen.

The Ritz Brothers work their way through college—over a period of years—by operating a tailoring establishment, in "Life Begins at College," which is offered at the Park theater. Joan Davis is an excellent foil for the three comedians and Gloria Stuart and Tony Martin carry the romantic theme. Spencer Tracy in one of his early pictures, Howard Hughes' "Sky Devils," is the second feature at the Park street theater.

* * *

"Mountain Music."

The hill billies of the Ozark mountain region are the folks who romp through "Mountain Music," which is booked for the Ritz for tomorrow and Saturday Bob Burns, son of a feuding clan, is to end the feud by marrying a gal of the other clan, but Martha Raye steps in to claim the Ozark Romeo. The piece is embellished with mountain music. Robert Montgomery and Virginia Bruce in "Yellow Jack" is a film version of Sidney Howard's play.

Governor Clyde R. Hoey of North Carolina, one of the last of the old-time orators, wears a Prince Albert coat on all occasions.

STOCK MARKET RALLIES AFTER EARLY SELLING

Business News Continues as Stimulating Influence for Securities.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Profit takers slapped the stock market down in today's early proceedings, but it refused to take the count and, near the second hour, started to get back on its feet.

Moderately in arrears were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse, Dupont, U. S. Rubber and N. Y. Central.

Unchanged to up as much as a point were Republic Steel, Cerro De Pasco, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway, Standard Oil of N. J., Texas Corp., and Johns-Manville.

In addition to Wall street's satisfaction with the election results, Business news continued as a stimulating influence for securities.

Bonds were selectively improved. Commodities were slightly uneven.

Noted were figures of the Edison Electric Institute disclosing power production for the week ended Nov. 5, topped the similar week in the preceding year for the first time since early December, 1937. The gain over last year amounted to .2 of 1 per cent, but the total was .8 under the previous week.

Studied also was the report of the Federal Housing Administration which showed that, during October, gross business of the organization since its establishment in 1934 had crossed the $3,000,000,000 mark.

G. O. P. OILS GUNS FOR TRIUMPH IN 1940 ELECTIONS

Capture 11 New Governorships, 77 House Seats; Two Races Remain in Doubt.

Hoover said it should mark "the beginning of the end of this waste of public money, these policies of coercion, political corruption and undermining of representative government."

Relief Shift Looms.

His words foreshadowed a Republican drive to change the federal relief system. Indications are that it will be centered on revision of the WPA, target of anti-administration criticism throughout the campaign. Chairman Hamilton recently said Republican senators would demand an investigation of the WPA and especially charges of politics in relief.

In reviewing the elections, political strategists of both parties had many more factors than the direct results of the voting to consider in planning their further campaigns.

Among these were the potential effect on business of Republican gains, the political strength of organized labor, the question of whether the colored vote may be shifting in some areas from Democratic to Republican columns, and just where 1940 presidential hopefuls stand now that the midterm balloting is out of the way.

As to the latter, most politicians here agreed that some gained in stature while a few may have lost prestige Tuesday.

Democratic Chairman Farley offered his own comment on the 1940 Republican presidential situation. "Senator Vandenberg is the Republican to defeat," he said. But the senator responded that Farley would have his hands full picking a Democratic nominee.

In analyzing the sources of renewed Republican strength, politicians speculated on whether some of it might have come from anti-CIO votes in addition to the possible shift in the negro vote. As for the former, the AFL and the CIO split in some contests, dividing the labor strength.

As for the colored vote, one notable shift was that of Robert L. Vann, publisher of a Pittsbugh colored paper and a power among colored voters. He supported the Pennsylvania Republican ticket, although in 1936 he had backed President Roosevelt.

KIDNAP PRISON OFFICERS, FLEE

Four Kentucky Convicts Make Dash For Freedom.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Two state penitentiary officials were kidnaped and three others were tied up and robbed of their weapons by three prisoners who made a break for freedom in a prison truck.

Shortly afterward the prisoners were reported to have been shot down in a battle with state, county and city officers on a Nashville street. A fourth prisoner, who made the break with the others, was captured separately and returned to the prison.

Those who got away and were reported shot were Lonnie Taylor and Rufus Guy, both participants in a former prison break, and Horace Woodruff. All were serving terms for murder.

CUT STRIP ACT

Chicago University Dean Rules Out Dance for Stag.

CHICAGO—(AP)—The star act at the University of Chicago homecoming dance Friday night has been taken off the program.

Iron Mask, senior honorary society, had planned to present a strip tease dancer at the affair, which is booked as the stag shag.

Dean Leon P. Smith said he wouldn't allow the strip tease act —"it's beneath the dignity of the university."

RIVALS FIRST ARMISTICE DAY

erans dinner at 6 p. m. at the post home. All World war and Spanish war veterans have been invited to attend.

Mansfield's rapidly vanishing ranks of G A. R. will not be able to attend the dinner, as members have in past years, nor take part in the day's celebration.

The two-division parade forms on Park avenue west, between Mulberry street and Bowman at 7 p. m. and marches at 7:30. Grand Marshall Robert J. Nichols announced the line of march today and the positions of the various units taking part in the parade.

The first unit forms on the north side of the street and the second division on the south side. Mayor Claude M. Hunter, with city officials, and an escort of police head the first division, with Grand Marshal Nichols and his aids, S. V. Fox and Ray Morgan, following.

The Legion drum corps, Legionnaires in uniform, the Legion's troop of Boy Scouts, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Veterans of the Central Powers, the Spanish War Veterans, Prospect park band, and the allied patriotic organizations of the G. A. R. will make up the first division.

The second division will be escorted by the state highway patrol, and the Mansfield High school band. In the column will be the Richland County Reserve officers corps, the Baku Grotto band, postal employes, the Red Cross unit, Madison High school band, Mansfield fire department, the float of the J. O. U. A M., Battery D of the 134th field artillery under the command of Lieut. Allen Ports, and civilian units.

Hold Red Flares.

The column will move between rows of red flares along the streets, held by Boy Scouts. It will move north on Mulberry to Fourth and east on Fourth to Main, south on Main to Central park, around the park and west on Park avenue to the Legion home.

In front of the Memorial building the column will rest with colors and standards massed while the Red Cross raises its banner above the street.

Every public school in Mansfield will hear a brief talk on Americanism at assemblies during the morning. A squad of speakers for this purpose will be made up of Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch Mrs. Walter L. Beckley, state president of the American Legion auxiliary, E. Ray Jenkins, James L. Zimmerman, County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott, Glenn L. Bierly, Atty. Thomas J. McDermott, Mrs. Robert Jones, Harry Finefrock, Rev. David N. Roller, R. D. Iden, Rev. Grover E. Swoyer and W. C. Mead.

For the first time since the first Armistice day in 1918, all federal employes will have a holiday. Armistice day was declared a national legal holiday in May of this year, through passage of legislation in Washington. Subsequently, the Ohio legislature passed similar legislation. Previously the day had been made a holiday by proclamation of the governor.

Tonsils, Adenoids Out, Quints Put To Bed With Sore Throats

(By United Press)

CALLANDER, Ont.—The Dionne quintuplets were in bed today with sore throats, but well on the road to recovery from tonsil and adenoids operations.

They were uncertain about what had happened to them, but accepted it philosophically after Dr. Alan Brown of Toronto explained that they would feel better when it was all over.

Dr. Alan Roy Dafoe, who brought the babies into the world in a backwoods farm house four and a half years ago absented himself from the scene so the babies would not associate any of the unpleasantness with him. He remained close to the operating room, however, and was first to inform the townspeople outside that "everything is all right."

Olivia Dionne, the father, was at the Dafoe hospital but Mrs. Dionne stayed away, fearing her presence would "upset" the babies.

It was only this week that Dr. Dafoe and Dr. Brown, consultant for the quintuplets, announced that the babies' tonsils had been infected.

Dr. Brown brought Dr. E. S. Wishart, nose and throat specialist at the Children's hospital at Toronto, and Dr. C. H. Robson, chief anesthetist of the hospital, as well as a staff of assistants and nurses.

One by one the quintuplets were taken into the dining room of their nursery and laid on the makeshift operating table. Marie, smallest of the five, was first. Dr. Wishart worked swiftly, completing the operation in less than 30 minutes. Yvonne, Cecile, Emilie and Annette followed in that order.

POLITICAL PLUMS G. O. P. HEADACHE

Bricker Faces Big Task of Handing Out Jobs, Keeping Constituents Happy.

surance that his policies will have, for the most part, the support of a Republican majority in both the house of representatives and the senate.

A total of 1,263,678 votes were cast for Bricker, according to a complete unofficial count, while Charles Sawyer, his Democratic opponent, received 1,146,695 ballots. Bricker's plurality was 116,983.

His running mate, Robert A. Taft, did even better in his race with Senator Robert J. Bulkley for a place in the United States senate. Although he ran 8,400 votes behind Bricker he was given a plurality of 170,931 over Bulkley. The vote was: Taft, 1,225,279; Bulkley, 1,084,348.

Bricker carried 77 counties in his victory sweep, while Taft was top man in 78 counties. Republican candidates for lieutenant-governor, secretary of state, treasurer and attorney general zoomed along with large majorities in the vanguard of the GOP's triumphal march and the state supreme court attained a 4-to-3 Republican majority when two judges on the ticket were elected.

Ohio's set-up in Washington will be vastly changed with the election of 15 Republican congressmen out of the state's 24 districts. Both GOP candidates for congress-at-large were successful. For the most part, the congressional race was an overthrow of the New Deal except for the defeat of Arthur P. Lamneck in Franklin county by John Vorys. Lamneck was an opponent of many New Deal measures.

The following congressmen were elected:

First, Elston (R); second, Hess (R); third, Routzohn (R); fourth, Jones (R); fifth, Clevenger (R); sixth, Polk (D); seventh, Brown (R); eighth, Smith (R); ninth, Hunter (D); tenth, Jenkins (R); eleventh, Claypool (D); twelfth, Vorys (D); thirteenth, White (R); fourteenth, Harter (D); fifteenth, Secrest (D); sixteenth, Seccombe (R); seventeenth, Ashbrook (D); eighteenth, Lewis (R); nineteenth, Kirwan (D); twentieth, Sweeney (D); twenty-first, Crosser (D); twenty-second, Bolton (R). Congress-at-large, Marshall (R) and Bender (D). Total: Republicans, 15; Democrats, 9.

The final count showed Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt (D) ahead of Walter B. Wanamaker (R) of Akron, 899,092 to 880,579 in the election of chief justice of the supreme court. Mathias (R) was re-elected over Winegardner (D) 1,042,809 to 646,508, while Hart (R) defeated Gorman (D) 826,860 to 754,576. Matthias and Gorman are incumbent judges on the supreme court bench.

Dixon (D) was elected to the six-week unexired term over Allen (R) 1,224,947 to 619,587.

ECONOMY ORDER INCLUDES O. S. R.

State Welfare Head to Confer With Glattke; Institution Has 'Slight Surplus.'

for boy's at Lancaster already have been ordered to cut their budgets "to the bone."

Glattke said that the reformatory "may not be facing an impossible task" because it has a "slight surplus" despite the fact that the population of the institution is 500 more than it was last year at this time.

Glattke explained that the reformatory was "well within its budget" and that the institution had operated on that basis for the past four years.

This has been accomplished by effecting certain economies in management and favorable summer weather which has accounted for a good crop on the reformatory farms", Glattke added.

The reformatory is one of the few welfare institutions in the state that raises a considerable amount of its own produce and supplies.

Another contributing economy factor Glattke said was the mild fall which has permitted a savings in the fuel bill and the slaughtering of some cattle and hogs which has cut down the meat budget.

He said that minor adjustments in the reformatory's schedule of expenditures probably would make up the budget slash unless estimates of receipts prove to have been too liberal.

INCORPORATION OF BOULEVARD DISTRICT ASKED

Residents Failing in Move to Have City Annex Section Take New Step.

Petitions were being circulated today by members of the South Boulevards Property Holders association in the organization's first move for incorporation of the community south of Mansfield. Dr. Chester Frickman is president of the association.

R. K. Clark, treasurer of the group and a leader in the incorporation movement, said attempts to have South Boulevards annexed to the city of Mansfield had failed and incorporation is the only alternative if the community is to obtain a sewage system.

Has Population of 300.

If South Boulevards is incorporated as a village, a bond issue will be sought to provide funds for a sewage system, Clark said. The community has a population of approximately 300 persons. It is a residential section.

Clark said the association would try to obtain at least 150 names on the petitions to submit to Richland county commissioners who are authorized to approve the incorporation.

Commissioners already have approved a petition to annex South Boulevards to Mansfield, but city council tabled the request when it was presented several weeks ago, Clark said.

Prize Contests More Than Pay Way In College

EVANSTON, Ill. —(U.P.)— Henry Shull, a junior at Northwestern university, has added a unique occupation to time-honored methods of working one's way through school.

No baby-tending, dish-washing or magazine-selling for Shull. He makes his own way, and adequately, by winning prize contests. During the last five years, he has realized $3,500 in winnings from 59 contests, and last spring won an automobile, which he promptly sold for cash. The entry which won him the car took him 15 minutes and he did it to while away the time, while riding to class on a street car.

It all began because Shull and his two younger brothers wanted a pony. For two years they tried to guess which two ponies in an advertisement looked alike, but without success. Finally, when Shull was a junior in high school, he won a pony, but by that time he was bigger than the pony, so he sold it.

That made a contest fan of him and he's been at it ever since. Just a hobby, though, he says.

ILLINOIS BOOM IN OIL GROWS

Production Up From 400,000 Barrels to 2,500,000 In 16-Month Period.

(By United Press)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. —Booming oil production in southern Illinois has sent the state's output from 400,000 barrels to nearly 2,500,000 barrels a month over a 16-month period and has flooded the southern half of the state with a speculative fever.

Discovery of new fields early in 1937 disclosed great untapped reserves of oil in the state and the completion of many producing wells touched off the boom.

In the first nine months of the year, 1,264 wells were completed according to data compiled by the state geological survey. Of that total, 967 produced oil.

First available production figures for the new fields were for June, 1937, when the output was 53,000 barrels compared with 463,000 barrels for the whole state. An increase in production was reported each succeeding month.

By September, production in the new fields was estimated at 2,055,000 barrels and for both new and old fields, the figures were fixed at 2,455,000 barrels.

Output for the first nine months of this year was approximately 14,015,000 barrels, enough to supply the nation's needs for four and four-tenths days. The figure was nearly twice the production for the year, 1937, when the 7,426 barrel total included 2,884 barrels from new fields.

The boom centers around Centralia in Marion county, about 80 miles east of St. Louis. Hundreds of producting wells have been completed in that area.

'Movie Quiz' Held To Be Violation Of Lottery Laws

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(INS)—An opinion, issued from the office of Attorney General Roy McKittrick, declared the nationwide $250,000 "movie quiz" contest now being conducted is in violation of Missouri's lottery laws.

F. E. Reagan, an assistant attorney general, who was responsible for ruling out of the state the once popular "bank night," asserted the contest had all the elements of a lottery—chance, consideration and remuneration.

There is a penalty of up to five years imprisonment for violation of the state lottery laws. It was declared that in this case agencies advertising the "movie quiz," as well as theaters, could be held liable for prosecution.

KICK KICKS BACK

Memorial Flower of Disabled Vets To Be Sold Friday

Mansfield will have another memorial flower day tomorrow when the Disabled American Veterans sell their memorial symbol, the forget-me-not, on the downtown streets, for the benefit of their rehabilitation fund.

Just as the American Legion auxiliary has designated the Saturday before Memorial day for its annual Poppy day, the disabled veterans observe Armistice day as their flower day in many parts of the United States. In Mansfield it will open tomorrow and continue through Saturday.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter gave the city's official approval to the drive by issuing a proclamation which reminds citizens of the sacrifices that were made by soldiers of the World war.

"May this barrage of forget-me-nots on Friday and Saturday find its mark with our citizens," he said, "just as effectively as did those barrages of bullets 20 years ago. The service which the Disabled American Veterans are thereby enabled to render to their less fortunate comrades has been, and will be, of incalculable value to this community."

The memorial flowers will be sold by Boy Scouts of troop 16—the American Legion troop—and by girls of Blue Tri.

ANIMALS DINE FOR PUBLIC

TOELDO, O.—(U.P.)—Toledo zoo's animals now have their meals scheduled to suit the convenience of onlookers. Caretakers have found that visitors like to see the animals "at table," so they have shifted main feedings to the afternoon.

GO TO AKRON

9 Mansfielders to Attend Ohio C. of C. Meeting.

Nine Mansfielders will go to Akron tomorrow as delegates to the annual two-day meeting of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce which will be held at the Mayflower hotel.

Those who will carry Mansfield's vote to the 45th annual convention are H. L. Goemann, national counsellor; Judge C. H. Huston, president of the Mansfield chamber; C. H. Henkel, W. H. G. Kegg, P. M. Eliot, J. M. Hill, G. W. Stephens, H. W. Arlin and Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager.

The conference will be headlined by addresses by Bennett Champ Clark, U S senator from Missouri and already hailed as a potential presidential candidate in 1940, and Merle Thorpe, editor of "Nation's Business." Another speaker will be Paul Sifton, assistant administrator of the federal bureau of labor's new wage and hour division, who will discuss wage and hour legislation.

Medical service rates to farmers in the United States increased 21 per cent between 1910 and 1929.

TAKES STEPS TO CREATE COUNTY HOUSING BOARD

Appointing Authority Agrees on 4 Members, Announces Names Next Week.

The creation of a Metropolitan Housing Authority in Mansfield to conduct a federal housing program here appeared nearer today when it was learned that the county appointing authority had tentatively selected four members of the five-man board.

Meeting behind closed doors at the courthouse yesterday, city and county officials emerged after a two-hour session to announce that they had made no definite appointments but that another session would be held next week at which time they expected to make public the names of the persons who will constitute the housing board.

Officials attending the session were Judge C. H. Huston, Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, Mayor Claude M. Hunter and County Commissioners C. L. Mitchell, Ray Hout and Guy Stewart.

Three Agree To Accept.

It was learned, however, that four members had been chosen to the board and that three of the men had agreed to accept the positions.

Among the names mentioned were those of a city councilman, a labor leader and two businessmen.

While Mayor Hunter is to select two members to the board and one each is to be named by each of the judges and the commissioners, the five are to meet the approval of the entire appointing authority.

The state housing board approved the establishment of a housing authority here on Sept. 14 after a public hearing on a petition presented by a citizens committee who had conducted a slum clearance survey in Mansfield.

The program as outlined at that time provided for the razing of slum dwellings in three different sections of the north end of the city and called for model housing community east of the Mansfield corporation line from Grace street south to the Ashland road, estimated to cost $2,000,000.

GILLETTE TAKES LEAD IN IOWA

Democratic Senator Apparently Re-elected In Hot Race.

DES MOINES, Ia.— (AP) —Sen. Guy M. Gillette (D.) today apparently was re-elected as revisions in the Iowa unofficial general election tabulations widened his lead over L. J. Dickinson, (R.), a former senator.

Returns from all 2,447 Iowa precincts gave Gillette 412,844 and Dickinson 410,223.

The entire Republican slate for state offices apparently was swept into the Capitol by wide margins, on the basis of unofficial returns.

CONFER IN CITY ON RURAL ROADS

Officials of Five Counties to Discuss Low-Cost Type of Farm Highways.

How to provide the greatest mileage of low-cost type of "farm-to-market" roads for the greatest number of taxpayers using the secondary highway systems will form the theme of a meeting of road officials from five counties surrounding Mansfield here tonight.

Of increasing importance is the secondary road improvement question at this time owing to the federal government's interest in providing funds for assisting counties to rehabilitate their gravel and "dirt" road, according to Robert Fosburg of the public relations department of the Calcium Chloride association of Detroit, sponsors of tonight's meeting. The session is to be held at 8 p. m. in Farmers Bank building.

By means of a semi-technical talking picture, it will be shown how many states such as Michigan, and numerous Ohio counties, including nearby Holmes and Wayne, have built the so-called "chemically stabilized" type of gravel road at low cost but with results satisfactory to rural taxpayers. Explaining the Wayne county roads will be Paul Glasgow, county engineer.

CAPTURE SEVEN AFTER PRISON BREAK IN SOUTH

All Seriously Wounded in Gun Battle With Officers in Heart of Nashville.

(By Associated Press)

NASHVILLE, Tenn—Seven convicts who escaped from the state penitentiary after tying up three guards and taking two others along as hostages were recaptured an hour later after all had been seriously wounded.

The two hostages also were wounded in a gun battle with officers in the heart of Nashville and one of the guards left tied at the prison was found to be suffering from serious stab wounds.

M. A. Warren, assistant chief of the state highway patrol, said about 20 officers discovered the prison truck about a mile from the penitentiary and opened fire when the convicts kept going.

"We shot it out with them," he said, "and they stopped only when we shot them all down. I think their guns were emptied by that time."

Deputy Warden C. C. Woods and his assistant, Capt. H. Sampson, were the officials wounded when the prisoners holding them were shot. They were taken to the prison hospital.

The stab wounds of Guard Strickland were reported as serious. Guards Dick Smith and Tolley, also tied up, were not injured.

The prison hospital reported three of the prisoners were in critical condition. All had buckshot wounds and some also had been hit by pistol bullets.

The prisoners involved in the escape included Lonnie Taylor and Rufus Guy, both participants in a former attempted break. Horace Woodruff, another of the prisoners, who drove away in the truck, was serving a term for murder.

The gun battle took place on the edge of Centennial park, a partly business and partly residential section.

HORSES CARRY BRAIN DISEASE FATAL TO MAN

Equine Sleeping Sickness Is Declared Endemic in Many U. S. Areas.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO — Scientific proof that the fatal horse encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, can be and is transmitted to human beings with the same fatal results as in animals, has been established by the Hooper Foundation of Medical Research of the University of California.

Furthermore, an official announcement said, the disease is now endemic in a large number of places throughout the United States, and with the discovery that it is communicable to human beings, it becomes an increasing menace to public health.

The discovery of the active agent of the equine sleeping sickness in the brain of a human being was made by Miss Beatrice Howitt, research associate for the foundation.

Endemic In 1937.

"During the summer and autumn of 1937," said Dr. Karl F. Meyer, director of the foundation "many people in the Central and Northern California Valley regions became ill with an acute encephalitis or brain disease resembling sleeping sickness.

"Many died within a few days after the first appearance of the symptoms. However, no etiological agent at the time was recovered from any of them.

"But two months ago, a child died at the Fresno County hospital with acute encephalitic symptoms and from the brain of this victim, Miss Beatrice Howitt succeeded in recovering the active agent."

Experiments with this agent, Dr. Meyer sail, have demonstrated that it gives a similar type of brain disease to mice, rats, guinea pigs, rabbits and monkeys. It also proved to be identical in characteristics with the sleeping sickness virus previously discovered in 1930 at the University of California and which is the cause of the diseasc in horses.

Five Years of Disease.

"The disease has become endemic in this region during the past five years," Dr. Meyer said, "and now we are at last sure that it can be transmitted to human beings.

"While this is the first occurrence of the recovery of this western type of equine encephalitis virus from a human brain, yet within the past month the eastern equine form has been found capable of infecting children in Massachusetts.

"The two discoveries corroborate each other in establishing the menace of this infection to human beings. It has also been established that this infection is now on the increase throughout the country.

"The next step of science, of course, will be to find the means to combat it."

SOY BEAN FIRM

The Ohio Soya company of Shelby filed articles of incorporation today with Secretary of State William J. Kennedy and requested authority to issue stock amounting to $91,800.

Directors of the company, which was organized to buy and distribute soy beans, are W. R. Morris, Jerome McMahon and C. E. Hildebrand and R. C. Dalton. The firm's offices are on East Main street, Shelby.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1938.

Maybe those Maine and Vermont voters were not so foolish after all.

Looks as if Thursday will continue to be merely a day in the week—even in California.

Not that the honesty of voters is questioned—but you may have noticed that a string is always tied to the pencil in the election booth.

Before and After the Armistice.

TWENTY years ago today the world was anxiously awaiting word that the armistice had been signed.

Midnight passed and it was several hours into November 11 before the welcome flash came over the wires, "Armistice signed," and those two words were enough to start bells ringing, whistles shrieking and presses rolling, in spreading the glad tidings that "the war to end war" had come to a conclusion and that "democracy had been saved."

Tomorrow marks the twentieth anniversary of that first Armistice day. Babies of that day have since grown to manhood or womanhood. Children who were too small to understand or remember are now engaged in doing some of the work of the world and are beginning to wonder what was actually accomplished by that devastating conflict, carried through at such frightful cost in lives and wealth.

Instead of the era of unbroken peace toward which many people looked hopefully forward twenty years ago, the intervening two decades have witnessed a continuance of strife and conflict in many parts of the world, with resumption of a world war narrowly averted a few weeks ago and no present assurance that such a holocaust can be long evaded.

Japan is engaged in a war of invasion and conquest in China; Spain is torn by internal conflict; Czechoslovakia has been dismembered to meet the demands of Germany's Hitlerism; Russia is ponderously poised to resist aggression by either Japan or Germany, and the remaining democracies are moving feverishly toward rearmament which they believe necessary for self preservation.

All that is proved by consideration of present conditions, as compared with incidents of a quarter of a century ago, when the nations of Europe were plunging toward the World war, is that the ruling forces in many countries have not yet reached a degree of civilization that assures against resort to war, and that until such time arrives it will be necessary for peace-loving people to be prepared for war, if it is forced upon them.

There is nothing in history to encourage belief that the United States will not again become involved in war—however distasteful that thought may now be.

Nor should the naive idealism of pacifist thinking, or the scheming of alien propagandists, serve to swerve the United States from a determination to establish and maintain sufficient military strength to protect itself, its institutions and its people, should occasion require.

Roll Call Time for Red Cross.

WHOEVER may sometimes doubt that the world is becoming better, needs look no further than the fact that the American Red Cross is constantly attracting more supporters and volunteer workers to its cause, to restore optimism and faith in humanity.

Whether in quick relief of victims of disaster, or in less spectacular service throughout the year, the Red Cross exemplifies at all times that fine humanitarian spirit which answers affirmatively the question that has come down through the ages: "Am I my brother's keeper?"

A vast majority of the residents of Mansfield and Richland county are already so familiar with the Red Cross and its varied activities, that little more need be said than that the annual Red Cross roll call starts tomorrow and extends through to Thanksgiving.

Membership in the Red Cross—evidenced by payment of $1 during each roll call period—is an expression by millions of people that they are thoughtful of the welfare of others and are willing to contribute to a fund used solely to administer relief in times of emergency and to carry on work of mercy and helpfulness along many lines.

While the Red Cross is most frequently associated with its prompt response in cases of disaster, it is becoming more generally realized that this organization also performs important services in each community, as has been done in this city and county for a number of years.

Reports show that disasters of various kinds occurred in 129 places in 39 states within the past year—with the Red Cross ready to respond instantly to every call.

But there is also the work of first aid in highway accidents; home and farm accident prevention; classes in home hygiene and care of the sick; service to war veterans and their families; life saving instruction, and a Junior Red Cross program for youthful volunteer workers.

If the principles and practices of the Red Cross could be made the motivating spirit of human conduct in America and throughout the world, all of what now seem serious problems would be quickly solved and the permanence of world peace assured.

For when people think of what they can do FOR others, instead of TO them, there is no room for the hatred, envy and jealousy that inspires strife among individuals or war between nations.

Join the Red Cross. Pay your $1 membership fee—or more if you wish—so that, throughout the year, you can feel that you are sharing in the great work that this organization is doing.

Religious Economics.

ROGER BABSON, veteran business commentator, after giving a very optimistic view of the present situation and prospects, makes this statement:

"I call the business turns as I see them. My job is to give you facts. Therefore, while I am optimistic today, I say: We will have lasting personal, industrial and international prosperity only as we give greater attention to Jesus' Gospel."

It is not the first time that Mr. Babson has written in this vein, though he has probably never before been so explicit and insistent. It is a familiar doctrine of his that the Golden Rule is the best rule for business, and that Good Will to Men is more effective than ruthless competition or profiteering.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — An American corporation has a contract with the German Zeppelin company to lease a Zeppelin for transatlantic traffic—if and when it can shake 20 million cubic feet of helium gas from the tight clutches of Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

The contract under which this arrangement was reached is one of the unexpected things drawn up in the drag-net law enacted by the last congress. It requires the registration of all agencies in the United States which have foreign connections.

The company with the contract is American Zeppelin Transport Inc., of New York. There is nothing secretive or subversive about its contract with the German Zeppelin company. Its whole purpose, as outlined in the contract made public by the state department under terms of the alien-agency roundup, is to launch a transatlantic Zeppelin service with an American company sharing in the business on a fifty-fifty basis with the German company.

* * *

The Hope for Helium.

INCIDENTALLY, the contract indicates the company still has hope that Secretary Ickes—or a later secretary—will reverse the action of a year ago which denied American helium to Germany for use in the Zeppelin service.

At that time Ickes held that helium placed in the hands of Germany would be available for war service, contrary to the law which specifies that it could be sold abroad only for non-military purposes. The law was enacted immediately after the Hindenburg disaster when 36 persons burned to death in the explosion of the big bag of hydrogen gas.

The contract lapses as soon as the American company feels there is no hope of getting the 20 million cubic feet of helium necessary as a starter. Although Ickes repeatedly has reiterated his refusal to allow Germany any helium, the American company still holds the contract valid. In fact, technically it can keep it alive until 1942. Since President Roosevelt's second term ends in 1940, a new secretary of the interior with different views may be in office by 1942.

Could Build Zep In U. S.

UNDER terms of its contract with the German company, the American Zeppelin Transport may lease a Zeppelin; buy one in Germany, or even build one here.

The German company is obligated to supply Zeppelin experts if a ship is to be built here, as well as to train an operating crew for the American vessel regardless of where the U. S. company gets it. The American company already has contracted with the German company to lease a German ship at a rental of 1,633,000 Reichmarks (about $650,000 a year. That contract also is valid only "if and when" the American company can get 20 million feet of helium, of which the United States has a virtual monopoly.

There is one unique clause in the contract. It provided that neither company may sign a contract for landing privileges in other countries unless both companies are allowed that privilege. In other words, the American company could not arrange for landing privileges in England or France unless it also obtained that privilege for the German company.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Nov. 10, 1918.

Because of the tenseness of the war situation, The Mansfield News published a Sunday paper, the first in many years.

Mansfield churches were filled with worshipers when they opened for the first time in five weeks.

Roeliff Hout, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Hout, suffered a fractured ankle when a colt he was driving ran away.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Robbins celebrated their fourth wedding anniversary with a dinner for friends.

Mrs. H. M. Bristor was called to Pittsburgh by the illness of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Sadie Bristor.

Mrs. R. H. Oswalt left for Vancouver, Wash., to take up temporary residence near her husband who was stationed at Vancouver Barracks.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Preparedness Program Planned

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Naval and army and aerial preparation will figure very largely in congressional debate when the lawmakers next meet in Washington beginning Jan. 3. That already is evident.

President Roosevelt will send a strong message to Capitol Hill calling for rapid expansion programs in all these lines and it is a foregone conclusion that the legislators will give him pretty much whatever he asks for.

Senators David I. Walsh and Morris Sheppard, chairmen respectively of the senate's naval and military affairs committees, and Representatives Carl Vinson and Andrew J. May, as chairmen of the corresponding house committees, naturally will bulk importantly in the task of getting the required appropriations for the development of our sea, land and air forces.

I mention the navy in first place because, for obvious reasons, sea power is what Uncle Sam especially will need in the event of any future international clash. There are other peoples (notably Germans) who are more vitally concerned in the upbuilding of their air fleets and the training and equipment of their cohorts of earthly land fighters than we are. Due to our New World geography, however, an effective navy is our prime consideration.

Peril From the Air.

Perhaps I ought to have put our aviation in second place. Hostile foreign flyers couldn't invade us and secure a foothold, but they might do a lot of damage. We haven't any separate congressional air committees anyway. Overseas folk have their aviation ministries, like our war and navy departments. We haven't. Maybe for us such a department isn't necessary.

Our land warriors' interests count third. They're not negligible interests. Yet they're not so primary as the navy's—unless we cross seas to do some expeditionary fighting, which isn't contemplated.

There likewise is involved the matter of stepping-up of the potential activities of our war industries.

We have the industries all right, but they're adjusted to the production of a peace-time output. They can be re-adapted to war-time demands, but can it be done on short notice?

The Old World can do it.

We lost the faculty for such a re-adaptation soon after the last world conflict. We had an idea that that was a war to end war. We really believed it. The more sophisticated Old World gang knew better.

We've lagged consequently—trying to be pacifistic.

I was a pacifist before the last World war. I believed in the Ford peace party. I'm cured now.

Madame Rozsika Schwimmer inspired that Ford party. I still get letters from her, reproaching me for having turned traitor to the peace concept. I'm sorry, but it won't work, that's all.

Theory of Armaments.

The theory is that a country must arm against some other country. The country of the second part retaliatorily arms against the country of the first part.

Presently a point is reached at which it's cheaper to fight it out than to be continually arming.

It was just so between Britain and Germany in 1914.

And it yanked the whole world into the World war—a war essentially between England and Germany.

Lord Inchcliffe, a famous shipbuilder, offered the sure-enough remedy to opposition navy building when he said, a few years ago:

"Let all warship building be by popular subscription."

Who'd invest in warships?

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Business Moves Ahead.

By ERNEST M. PATTERSON
President, American Academy of Political and Social Science.

A recent Federal Reserve Bulletin announced good news. Industrial activity which began to increase in June from a level of 77 per cent during the second quarter of 1938 was 90 per cent at the end of September. These percentages are based on an average of the years 1923-25 which is taken as 100 per cent.

This is most encouraging. It is not merely a season gain for the index used is one which makes allowances for the changes that regularly occur at this time of year. All of us are helped by an advance in producton. Increased output is a larger national income and a larger national income is a greater volume of goods and services to be divided among us, especially in wages and salaries. Some of it will doubtless go to those who are fortunate enough to be owners of stocks, bonds and mortgages. Their interest and dividends will be increased.

Anyone who sounds a note of warning may be unwelcome and probably will be ignored as a prophet of gloom. But if our past experience teaches us anything at all it is that we have not yet learned how to prevent or even to lessen the ups and downs that we call the business cycle. As time passes they seem to be more extreme rather than less.

One serious danger is that some lines of production will advance more rapidly than others. In some cases this is, of course, desirable since demands for different products do not always remain in the same relationship to each other. At times more steel rails or copper or suits of clothes or hats are called for than at others. Conditions in other countries change, increasing or decreasing foreign purchases and sales in the United States. Expert analysis of markets, and in all lines, is more and more important.

Such analysis is amazingly hard and makes it all the more imperative that its difficulties should not be increased by inflationary movements. If prices in general advance rapidly, it is almost impossible for a responsible executive to determine what his own policy should be. Higher prices for his own product seem to reflect a greater demand and it seems to be good judgment to increase output and perhaps even to expand his plant capacity. If, however, all or most prices are advancing at the same time, wise decisions are difficult.

Some prices advance more rapidly than others, just as some fall more rapidly than others. Some prices are "flexible" and others are "inflexible." If there is a sharp general advance, these differences are very pronounced. Also, during a price rise it is difficult to maintain the poise that is necessary for calm judgments. All of us remember the optimism of the New Era during the 1920s and again during the early days of the New Deal.

This leads to a reminder that we face the possibility of a rapid advance in prices. We have nearly $13,000,000,000 of monetary gold in the United States. Our banks have about $3,000,000,000 of excess reserves. Two years ago there was a considerable price rise, followed by the collapse in 1937. It may be argued that this will teach us a lesson and that we shall now avoid such extreme ups and downs. Unfortunately some lessons seem never to be learned and in any case there is little or nothing that any individual or group can do.

We shall have to rely heavily upon government and reserve bank officials, but unfortunately they are neither all-wise nor all-powerful. Many of them are prompt to admit their limitations. And to these difficulties has been added the fact that the serious collapse of 1937 furnishes an argument against putting on the brakes. On the other hand, improved business will tend to quiet the most rabid of the inflationists.

Co-Education . . . Blessing or Blight?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THIS business of co-education . . . what do YOU think of it? Suppose you were the parent of a lively, lovable youngster, with the usual romantic yens—how would YOU wish to have him or her educated—with the opposite sex—or segregated?.

There's a question that's raising plenty of Cain in Atlanta, Georgia, as I write this—as the further existence of several high schools depends upon a vote shortly to be taken. Don't know what the result will be by the time you read this, but the youngsters have asked for my slant—so here it is, for whatever it's worth to any puzzled parent.

Naturally, I'm in favor of co-education, since I was born and raised in California, where open association between the sexes has always been the accepted social pattern. Even without such a background, I am sure I would still favor it as a mother and sponsor for Youth in general.

No question about the relationship between the sexes being the most important factor in normal life. It determines happiness in marriage . . . harmony in social contacts . . . success in industry. Moreover, the complete and ever-widening changes in our human program, make a harmonious adjustment between boys and girls, men and women, increasingly important. And it seems plain that the only proper time—indeed, the only practical time—to acquire such an adjustment is during adolescence, when youngsters have both enough time and elasticity to adapt themselves to each other.

Many parents will doubt this. They'll point to the happy marriages of their own youth—in the 80's, 90's, and early 1900's—as proof that boys and girls who were separated in school days can be supremely happy in wedlock. But the marital demands of 1898 and 1938 are entirely different—and worlds apart! The wife and husband of 1898 were bound only by affection for each other and their children. The average modern wife and husband share every industrial burden, every political interest, every social responsibility. They must speak a common language . . . feel a common emotional reaction . . . if their marriage is to be successful. Where better can they learn that language than in a common school life? How can they ever learn it easily or completely unless they learn it then?

"But they'll get boy-crazy, girl-crazy if they're in school together."

Not any more, or as much, than if they're apart. Romantic reaction isn't an abnormal mishap, to be avoided at all cost—it's a natural process which no power on earth can stop. Boys are going to dream about girls . . . girls are going to hanker after boys . . . though you place them poles apart. If they are studying, playing and planning life together when this great change comes upon them, the trend is toward easy, happy, almost unconscious adjustment. If, however, they are forced to live apart during their most plastic years . . . if they meet and mate after a period of feverish, frustrated excitement and curiosity, they are apt to have an unconscious emotional hang-over of suspicion and timidity which will mar their life-long relationship.

These aren't idle theories—they are serious convictions based on 25 years of motherhood and professional work with the service to young people. Daily, from 500 to 1,000 letters cross my desks . . . scores of youngsters crowd my 'phone or office. Youngsters whose main preoccupation — whatever their superficial pose—is success in love. And, invariably, those who have been educated together, approach each other more naturally, achieve companionship more quickly and easily.

At least nine tenths of our divorces are due—not to the conventional charges outlined in our statutes—but to ignorance, mistrust and emotional maladjustment between the sexes. They do not beat each other . . . do not cheat . . . But they have never learned to laugh together—to be good sports and generous friends.

So my vote's for co-education. However, I'd make one exception. Co-education may be a dangerous thing unless the mother carries on in the home as conscientiously as the teacher does in the school room.

But, given a normal home, I'd back Nature's own plan every time . . . let the youngsters learn about life and love while the learning's good! Not wait until they've hardened on the stem.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Henny Youngman reports a cross-section of the Oriental viewpoint concerning the China war thusly:

"I found myself at Ruby Foo's for dinner and vaguely troubled about something. It took me a long time to realize what it was. Then it suddenly occurred to me that the service was terrible. I hailed the headwaiter and demanded, 'What's the matter with those waiters? They're huddled over there in a corner and not paying attention to anything I tell them.'

"The headwaiter shrugged and shook his head sadly. 'They have,' he replied, 'big disagleement over Chiang Kai-Shek's strategy in Yangtze Liver Valley Campaign'."

* * *

CONTINUING our Oriental discourse; we should mention those attractive menu covers discovered on a recent visit to the Terrace Room in the Hotel New Yorker. Each has a striking picture in color and each details some Oriental belief. These are labeled "superstitions." I borrowed a waiter's pencil and made a note of them.

The one nearest at hand had to do with the Chinese. On the printed legend was: "The Chinese are said to eat tangerines on holidays to appease and ward off evil spirits." That is all. The Chinese have a strange genius for abruptly beginning and closing any thought.

I asked my waiter to hand me another menu and this one was devoted to the Nile country. "The ancient Egyptians," it said, "believe that worshipping the humble cabbage would insure an abundant life." I wanted to look at a lot more of them, but there wasn't time. I had to make a belated break for the theater, and so, I broke . . . but I'll be back . . . I want to make a record of a lot more superstitions.

ARTHUR MURRAY thinks the rhumba has a potential rival in the new (for N. Y.) samba, which is the national dance of Brazil. It is said to be graceful and exhilarating. One thing dancers are bound to like about it is that occasionally you just stop, look at each other, and hold hands. It isn't as simple as it sounds, however. There are any number of graceful but intricate figures to betray unwary plodders. But it's a pretty thing to see, and as Monsieur Murray suggests, just difficult enough to be exciting. Historic note: this dance was invented way back in 1828 by Don Chalasa, a musician in the court of Don Pedro, first emperor of Brazil. He was unhappily married and invented the dance seeking an opportunity to gaze into the eyes and hold the hands of his true love, a lady whose heart was pledged to another.

MORE and more producers are realizing that, to succeed, plays must bring themselves up to the daily headlines. One of the sure hits currently playing is Robert Sherwood's honest study of Abraham Lincoln's middle years. The things Lincoln said are as applicable today as then. That is one reason why Lincoln, whether you like it or not, will always be the dominant figure in American history. The things he said are deathless. They are as timely as tomorrow's headlines.

A Farmer's Diary

Witch Hazel.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THIS afternoon I walked across a wooded knoll. It was warm for early November. The sun shone bright slanting rays and softly lit the leaf strewn forest floor with a mild and mellow light.

A rabbit, frightened by my presence, left his warm, round, grassy nest along the path and shuttled back and forth until I saw him dart into a hollow log. The jays screamed loudly as they scratched among the leaves. A fox squirrel barked and scolded as I stood there, watching.

Down near the bottom of the slope, on a little bluff, the amber sunlight had glorified a tree with golden, threaded bloom. A miracle to see a forest tree flowering in November! I hurried to the place where I saw the slow-waving yellow branches.

Here I stood beneath the only small, hardy tree in all this latitude that is brave enough to bear its delicate, golden, streaming flowers in the cold November wind. It has powers of endurance that frost, wind, and snow cannot discourage.

I pulled a tough wiry branch to the level of my nose. There was a wild and robust fragrance, strong, pungent, even spicy.

On other forks close to the flowers and beneath, were two capsules on a single spur. Each had two valves and while I stood there holding down this springy branch, one of the little cups exploded and threw two seeds against my face with heavy force, so that it smarted. I felt for a moment that I had lost my welcome, and was a base intruder.

I noticed the seed containers carefully. They were old and weather beaten and held their fruit upon this branch almost an entire year, yet the cast out seeds were clean and new.

I felt I stood beneath a tree aflame with burning secrets, only two or three of which I learned, this beautiful November day. I shall return, at intervals, and watch the progress of the new-born fruit.

To School By Bus.

Motor bus transportation of school children in the United States has become one of the world's largest transportation operations. The daily passenger load of the school bus system is nearly five times as large as that of all railroads put together. It exceeds by 25 per cent the close-packed crowd that flows each day through the combined subway and elevated systems of the world's largest city, New York.

One school child in seven now gets to his classroom and home again in a school bus. This is excluding students using commercial bus lines. The United States office of education sets the number of students transported each school day in the year at 4 million. The transportation cost of a student is about $18 a year, which puts the school bus system on a 72-million yearly basis.—Commentator Magazine.

ANCIENT CAVES SOURCE OF SALT

Clevelanders Drive Daily Over Great Lakes 2,000 Feet Below Surface.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — Thousands of Clevelanders daily drive their automobiles over great salt lakes in subterranean caverns 2,000 feet below the surface, yet are unaware of their existence.

Virtually in the heart of the city, the beds are marked by towering rigging and smokestacks.

Experts say that the beds were formed 350,000,000 years ago when a salty sea covered northern Ohio. Their existence was discovered about fifty years ago In 1890, a company was formed to extract the salt from the earth

Now every day 5,000,000 gallons of lake water are pumped down into the ground—down 1,850 feet below the surface through four-inch pipes.

The salt deposits, hardened and untouched for millions of years, are dissolved by the stream, and salty lakes are formed.

Then compressed air is forced through pipes into the chamber and the pressure of this air upon the surface of the lake forces the brine to the surface through other pipes.

As it emerges from the caverns, the brine is piped to large settling tanks, where it remains for from 12 to 72 hours, permitting impurities such as iron and sand to fall to the bottom

Next the brine is evaporated by steam and vacuum, and the product remaining in crude salt, used by meat packers, tanners, picklemakers and others who do not require a highly-refined product.

It is this salt which is used to put the glaze on sewer pipes, tile and bricks And, applied while the metal is still hot, it helps take the scale off steel plate.

Book of the Week

* * *

PELHAM GRENVILLE WODEHOUSE'S latest has been lying around the house for weeks awaiting a low day in the life of the master. It came, and bless his heart, Pelham Wodehouse was the right medicine.

This giggle-maker is entitled "The Code of the Woosters." It contains the familiar people, most especially Bertie and the iron-nerved Jeeves. It opens in a reminiscent manner: Bertie is in bed with a dreadful hangover, due to the proceedings at a bachelor dinner tendered his friend, Gussie Fink-Nottle.

Gussie is about to marry Madeline, the daughter of Sir Watkyn Bassett, C. B. E., and it was Madeline (you may remember) who once tried to bull-dog Bertie and cart him off to Totleigh Towers, Totleigh-in-the-Wold, as her husband. Bertie will feel safer when Gussie has actually married Madeline. Oh much, much better.

Well, at this point a Dutch cow-creamer enters the plot. Aunt Dahlia's husband, Uncle Tom, is a fancier of old silver. He has a limited option on a superb Dutch cow-creamer in a certain shop, and Bertie is routed out of his hangover by Aunt Dahlia to go to said shop and sneer at the cow-creamer, so that Uncle Tomy may buy it cheaper. (This sounds like a dire capitalist plot to us, but let it pass.)

Bertie only goes because if he doesn't Aunt Dahlia won't ask him to eat any more of her chef's superb cooking, a fate fare more shocking than prison to Bertie. And whom do you suppose he meets in the shop? Madeline's magistrate father, old Sir Watkyn himself.

He recognizes Bertie because Bertie recently stole a policeman's helmet and was fined 5 pounds by Sir Watkyn. He has a sinister friend with him, and informs said friend that he remembers Bertie. Bertie is a bag snatcher, he declares.

At this point the friend observes that Bertie has Sir Watkyn's umbrella in his hand. And shortly after, Bertie trips over the cat while carrying the cow-creamer to the light, and appears to be stealing it.

Do you begin to see Pelham Grenville Wodehouse at his best in all this? If so rest comfortably: the sketch above is only a mere matter of 50 pages, and there are 298 in the book. —By J. S.

CHAPTER 42.

Judy explained, as the cab bumped along the road that paralleled the wharves and fish markets, just how the mysterious slight man in the green fedora and plaid overcoat had reappeared at Coralee Myers' residence in New Jersey to buy letters of the alphabet.

He had given no name and address, she added. Mr. Myers could not check on the generous buyer of the printed letters.

Ronald glanced at the initials carefully.

"I've had no messages in writing," he said, "concerning anything. Afraid there's nothing to compare. But it might be that the police department has specimens related to these. Of course, there's a chance, since that pen expert of yours sells these things to the general market, that the police could have them from some other party. It needn't relate to our man in any way."

"Mr. Myers knows the purposes to which the other people put the letters. They want notes, or names for certificates, or mottoes. This man is his only mysterious customer. I asked him.

Ronald leaned forward, slipped down the glass, gave a curt direction to the driver.

"Central Police Headquarters!"

Ronald was a favorite at police headquarters. It was instantly apparent to Judy that sympathy was with him in the attack made against him.

* * *

Another lawyer, a mean-mouthed, beady-eyed creature, was standing near the door of the office to which Ronald went. The lawyer looked at him and laughed with a crackling accent:

"Well, Birell, maybe it won't be long until you'll be entering through another door!"

For a moment Judy thought the red-headed attorney was going to swing out with a strong fist and land the cocky little representative of his profession a neatly timed wallop. The gray eyes flashed, the lean jaw stiffened, but Ronald passed on.

The taunting laugh of the cruel attorney followed them down the hall.

* * *

Judy was having difficulty keeping up with Ronald. He seemed to have forgotten her. She glanced down ruefully at the high-heeled patent leather pumps she wore and decided she would wear low-heeled brogus tomorrow. You couldn't run after Ronald in silly spikes. You couldn't run after him in anything.

They entered the office of the official whom they wished to see—whom Ronald wished to see, Judy corrected her thoughts. She had no knowledge of the mechanism of the law, except that G-men were heroes in the movies and generally got their man on the front page of the newspapers, too Also, if you speeded up Westchester way, you got a police tag and paid a fine.

"Coming all right, Judy?" Ronald asked with one of his swift, flashing smiles as he held the door for her.

The next hour was a hodge podge of curt commands, explanations, conferences. More detectives were summoned. Ronald's red hair stood up, crisp and glistening Judy tossed her hat on a table, forgot that her tilted nose was shining, plunged into the melee, glorying in it.

* * *

The head of the handwriting department took the disassorted alphabet He sent for some information which presently arrived. There were consultations and examinations and eventually he returned to say:

"These letters are identical with those in two notes we have on hand in connection with a blackmail case If this suspect of yours didn't send the notes then another client of Myers' did We are sending for the handwriter immediately."

"Blackmail?" Ronald repeated His hands clenched the table until the knuckles turned white Only Judy caught the recognition and acceptance of some unseen agent which was in Ronald's tones

"Received any blackmail letters, Birrell?" an officer asked

"Not one," Ronald had recovered quickly

* * *

Judy was taken into another department and hundreds, thousands of pictures were placed before her. She was asked to identify the man she had seen. Face after face—young, old, firm, savage, weak, treacherous. They swam before her eyes, they grinned and leered and wept.

"No," she said.

"Not this one," she commented.

"None of these," she began to judge them in groups.

Then a picture was placed in front of her, one which came from another group.

Judy nodded her head slowly, "Yes, that's the man. I mean I think it is. Here he has a cap and black suit. And his head doesn't precede his body. If I could see him walk—"

The two officers exchanged knowing looks. Judy intercepted the glance.

"Who is he?" she asked.

"A guy who's been earning a pretty penny at blackmail. Been up three times and indicted once and served a sentence. He's out now and we've been working on the idea that he's the brain in a blackmail racket we're after now. Been wanting to hold him under suspicion."

"You know where to get him?" Judy asked.

"The boys will pick him up," the answer came.

* * *

There was nothing more for Ronald and Judy to do until the police gathered some information, so they came from the police station into the cold winter air Spring had receded, winter was definitely reinstated. Snow blew in eddies around the corners.

Judy did not want Ronald to send her home. She wanted to stay with him. They could go to a movie together and sit some place where they needn't watch the picture very much. Or they could get something to eat. Maybe he would explain why the word "blackmail" had startled him.

Besides, she must present her gift or loan.

When Ronald said: "Judy, I must go to the office and clean out my desk. Want to come?" She was so glad she could only nod mutely. Ronald went into a restaurant in the law building and came out with his arms filled with bundles.

"Food," he said. "Mind eating in my office?"

"I'd adore it."

She cleared the wide sweep of polished oak, spread the paper tablecloth that came with the containers of food, placed the silver and plates. There were two cartons of hot chicken soup; lamb chops with their legs neatly wrapped in white frills and their browned surfaces decked with parsley; potato salad and cheese and pickles; two big pieces of huckleberry pie and two cartons of coffee.

* * *

It was the kind of a meal that a man would assemble, Judy mused, but a tender mist clouded her eyes. Ronald walked to the window and stood, hands in his pockets, looking down into the snowy recesses of the cleared street.

When the food was ready, Judy went to stand by him. All around them was a blanket of silence, silence so vast that it reached up and up to the few stars shining in the open space where the buildings did not hide the sky. Ah, there was the moon, too.

What was it scientists said, Judy pondered. Then she remembered and told Ronald.

"Did you know that people must go 20 miles away from the electrical illuminations at Times Square to get the full effect of moonglow and starlight? The Neon signs and the glittering bulbs dim them."

Ronald took her hand in his, quietly this time, and he, too, looked up to the stars.

"Farther away than that, Judy," he said. "Much farther."

EARLY PAYMENT OF OHIO OLD AGE PENSIONS SEEN

Davey Calls for Transfer of Funds to Meet U. S. Share; Cheers 1,150 in County.

The chances for immediate payment of October old age pensions to Richland county's 1,150 pensioners were brightened today when Gov. Martin L. Davey ordered the transfer of enough money from the state's general fund to pay the federal government's half of the pensions, which has been withheld.

At the same time, the governor asserted he would demand a congressional investigation of the "high-handed" federal social security board which has refused to allocate its share of the October pensions until the state conforms to federal requirements.

Opening an investigation shortly before the August primary election, the federal board charged that Gov. Davey had used the old age pensions to further his candidacy for re-election.

Checks Held Up.

Checks for the full amount of the October pensions, due two weeks ago, have been written for several days and they will be mailed as soon as the money is borrowed and placed in the treasury, news dispatches said today.

Pensions for the month total $2,600,000, including $26,000 for Richland county's pensioners. Half of the total amount must be borrowed to make up the social security board's share.

Last Monday Wray Bevens, Ohio old age pension chief, denied in a seven-page letter to the board that state officials have violated federal or state pension regulations.

The board withheld 50 per cent of pension funds until 12 demands for reform in the Ohio division were met. Bevens claimed the most of the reforms had been made and flayed the board for "attempting to interfere in the election, tenure in office or salaries of the state division of aid for the aged."

LAGUARDIA LAUNCHES DRIVE TO ORGANIZE PROGRESSIVE PARTY

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — While Republican appraised the fruits of Tuesday's election in which they established dominance in 18 states, gained upwards of 75 house seats and at least eight in the senate, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia arranged today for a conference of progressive leaders.

Republican victories, many of them unexpected, from coast to coast, the Independent Progressive mayor conceded, "a black eye for the New Deal" but he maintained the damage can be repaired.

LaGuardia, a leading force in the American labor party, said he intends to call a meeting of Progressive leaders in Washington next week. To this conference he will invite Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, George W. Norris of Nebraska, Gov. Frank Murphy, Michigan's Democratic executive who was denied re-election, and other leaders in the progressive movement.

"I believe that one must be realistic about it and realize that the Progressive forces in several of the states seemingly have been disintegrated," observed LaGuardia, scanning the returns which enable the GOP to offer formidable opposition in the Democratic controlled congress.

"Eliminating New Jersey, where I do not think the question of Progressivism enters at all, I am willing to admit that there has been a decided setback. That is because the political sashay has not been perfected."

LaGuardia, close friend of President Roosevelt, has approved most of the administration's policies and legislation. He now sees the necessity for a concise, Progressive program, and stated that results in Tuesday's election means that labor must adjust its differences.

'Y' DECIDES TO RE-OPEN POOL

Swimming Tank, Closed for 10 Years, to Be Repaired, Ready for Use Dec. 1.

Plans to re-open the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool, closed for the past 10 years, were approved by the "Y" board of directors at a meeting Wednesday evening.

Work on repairing the pool will begin at once and according to present plans, it will be ready for use by Dec. 1, Charles E. Nail, president of the board, said.

The pool will be redecorated and repaired, and a modern filtration plant to conform with public health laws will be installed.

"Opening of the pool was made possible through cash contributions by members of the board, Y. M. C. A. members, and their friends," Ralph B. Chapman, general secretary at the "Y", said.

The pool has been closed since 1928 due to lack of filtration equipment and because of the expense in operating the pool without the needed equipment, it was said. Repairing of the pool is in charge of the "Y" house committee of which R. M. Calene is chairman.

"When completed, swimming will become a part of the regular gymnasium classes, and the pool will be open to all Y. M. C. A. members", Chapman stated.

3 Given Suspended Jail Terms For Gasoline Theft

Three west side youths, one a Sunday school teacher, arraigned in municipal court today on charges of violating the state auto theft act by draining gasoline from a motor vehicle, were given suspended jail sentences when they pleaded guilty to the charges.

They were C. Fred Proctor, 853 Park avenue west; Kenneth Layland, 111 West Fifth street, and Boyd Knoffock, South Linden road, whose ages ranged from 18 to 20.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, after reprimanding the three, suspended 30-day jail sentences in each case on payment of the costs.

The trio was arrested last night by Lieut Paul Whipp and Patrolman John Steele, who said they found the youths draining gasoline from cars on Linden road near the Coliseum.

They produced as evidence two gallon cans, one full of fuel, a rubber hose and a funnel, which they said they found in possession of the youths.

NAZIS FROWN ON JAZZ AND SWING TUNES

But Germany Feels Composer War on Modern Dance's Doomed to Failure.

(By International News Service)

DUESSELDORF, Germany — War on jazz and swing dance hits was declared by German composers during their recent musical meeting here.

However, while it's almost certain that dances like the Big Apple will never become popular in the Third Reich, it is also evident that the composers' crusade against modern dance music is doomed to failure and that even ardent members of the Hitler Youth organization will continue to enjoy English waltz, fox trots and moderate swing in dance halls and bars.

Professor Paul Graenor, president of the German Composers' association, appealed to parents all over the country to join the musicians' war on modern dance music.

Appeals to Youth.

"I call upon all fathers and mothers," he declared, "not to permit their children to bring those modern hits home. And I especially appeal to the youth itself not to tolerate that such courchonneries are played in dance halls or cafe houses. They must protest against this and leave such places to demonstrate their protest.

"Compare our modern dance music with those classical tunes by Strauss, Milloecker or Suppe. We are not so much disgusted because popular music has nowadays become so bad but because the people tolerate it. We must have the courage to chase those who dare offer us such 'music' out of the temple."

The militant professor admitted that his composer colleagues were partly responsible for the present "deplorable situation," but nevertheless found much more blame to put on what he called the "decadent listener," than on "decadent music" itself.

SOWING RECORD CLAIMED

MELBOURNE—(I.P.)—A Victorian farmer thinks he may have set up a world sowing record. Working day and night with the aid of powerful headlights, for six days, he sowed 920 acres of wheat in 129 hours. He used a tractor, hauling a combine which sowed the grain, spread the fertilizer and covered the seed automatically.

ROLLING HILLS, Calif. — (AP) —Franklin French, 15, kept seven rattlesnakes for pets and eventually he got bit. The boy's mother rushed him to the hospital, and after he was out of danger decided it would be a good lesson to make him pay his own hospital bill.

The only way Franklin could raise the money was to sell the snake that bit him.

Says World's Tonic "Greatest Ever"

"Seemed Impossible To Regain Health. Began Taking Famous Medicine."

"World's Tonic Stopped Awful Pains."

WORLD'S TONIC really needs no salesmen because every day more and more satisfied and happy users are becoming salespeople for this famous medicine by telling their friends and acquaintances of the many benefits it has brought to them. Listen to this sales talk by Mrs. W. B. Jones of 115 Dodge Ave., Akron, O.

"I'm certainly going to tell all my friends about WORLD'S TONIC. I feel a great obligation towards it and really think that a great deal of suffering people endure is unnecessary if only more people knew about WORLD'S TONIC. A continual state of constipation had me in such a general run down condition that I was subject to all sorts of symptoms. Stiffness in my joints and limbs like rheumatic pains made it difficult for me to move about. I took it for granted that women around fifty years of age should naturally expect to have weaker digestive powers and that not much could be done about it. I tried so many things and spent so much money trying to regain some measure of my former good health without proper results that I was almost convinced this was impossible. The constant rheumatic-like pains were like beatings with a club. Headaches were so bad and frequent that my doctor advised having my glasses changed but this did not relieve the headaches. My friends had a hard time convincing me to try WORLD'S TONIC but I finally did and now I want to pass on the good news to all who suffer as I did. I was astounded at the speedy relief from constipation and now, after four weeks, I'm positive I am on the road to recovering the kind of good health I have sought for so long a time. All those old aches and pains are gone and I find I haven't got rheumatism. World's Tonic is the greatest ever and I recommend it highly."

There are many ingredients in WORLD'S TONIC which come from various parts of the old countries where many of our strong and healthy ancestors lived in health and happiness. Modern and up-to-date with valuable alkalines it is also pleasant to take.

WORLD'S TONIC is for sale at Central and other modern Drug Stores. (E 25)—Adv.

Anti-Roosevelt Dems to Hold 'Big Stick' In Congress

REPUBLICANS GAIN, FAIL TO GET MAJORITY

But Administration Foes With New Members Seen as Crimp to Reorganization Plan.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Election losses which cut deeply into President Roosevelt's numerical majority in congress may give the balance of power on occasion to the small band of anti-administration Democrats.

This group combined with Republicans in 1937 to kill the president's court bill. A similar coalition in the house defeated the first wage-hour bill and the government reorganization program, both of which passed the senate by scant margins.

In the 1939 session the Democrats will have a majority of about 20 senate seats and more than 40 house seats, but several times in the last two years fully that number of Democrats nas voted against the administration.

Lose Progressives.

In addition to their own losses, the house Democrats will lose the support of several progressive and farmer-labor members who frequently voted with them but who were defeated for re-election by Republicans.

Some of the anti-Roosevelt Democrats in both chambers lost Tuesday along with administration supporters, but informal surveys showed that their strength, coupled with the increased Republican forces, still could be an even more vital factor than heretofore.

Most politicians here agreed, for instance, that the government reorganization bill shelved by the house last year could not be enacted in the same form in 1939. Although President Roosevelt is expected to resubmit the program, it may be changed sufficiently to meet more general congressional approval.

Rebellious Democrats also may have considerable to say on the farm situation, on taxes, and on proposals to amend the Wagner labor act and social security laws. Their voice will be heard not only on the senate and house floors, but in committee rooms, where legislation is shaped for presentation to congress.

Republicans, too, will have a greater voice in the all-important committee debates for membership is apportioned according to congressional strength. The Republican ratio will grow particularly in the house.

For several sessions, the ratio of Democrats to Republicans on major house committees has been about 18 to 7. The new lineup may mean that proportion will be changed to 15 to 10 or 14 to 11.

Consequently, the make-up of the house rules committee may be of exceptional importance to the administration since that committee serves as a monitor to determine which major bills will be brought before the house.

Taft Busies Self With Senatorship, Not Presidency

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Robert A. Taft, Ohio's senator elect, set himself today to work on the immediate problems of the Republican minority in congress rather than speculate on what 1940 may bring him.

"Republican legislators," he said after unseating Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland from the U. S. senate, "have a great responsibility. Remember, we are still a minority."

Of his own prospects, Taft said talk of Taft-for-President in 1940 shouldn't be taken "too seriously."

"The Republicans have work to do and a senator's term is for six years," he said. He is a son of the late President and Chief Justice William Howard Taft.

He deferred discussion of legislation and policy until the Republican congressmen had gotten together, but said the party "should be interested in developing a policy which will be the basis of its appeal in 1940."

He declared that when he went to Washington he would keep his personal interests in Cincinnati. He expected to take little part in capital social life.

The Doughboy monument in Central park received a much-needed "bath" for Armistice day. The white granite statue of an American soldier which stands on the east side of the park and where the morning services are held each Armistice and Memorial day, has been sand-blasted to a shining whiteness. The work was contributed by the Mansfield Monument company and the Mansfield Structural company, as it takes something more than soap and water and elbow grease to give the Doughboy a "bath."

One Richland county school official—a principal, at that—takes his politics very lightly. When he went to vote Tuesday, he was surprised, not to say amazed (believe it or not) to see the name of Charles Sawyer on the ballot, when, according to his memory of the latest political news, Martin L. Davey was the candidate. So he accredited the mistake to those who printed the ballot, scratched out Sawyer's name and wrote in Davey's. It wasn't until he told friends of the "mistake" that he learned Sawyer was a candidate. Was he surprised?

As relief to a somewhat depressed feeling over the election outcome, Attorney William F. Voegele, former Democratic mayor of Mansfield, received a message telling that his son-in-law, Norman J. The hayride party, a popular sport with youngsters of a past generation, was revived last night by 30 members of the Senior Luther league of the First Lutheran church who donned overalls and slacks and went on a wagon ride near Lucas. Meeting at a farm near Lucas, rode through the country on a large wagon with hay spread over the floor.

Dr. Bonar Elected President of Mansfield Chapter.

Dr. L. D. Bonar, one of Mansfield's flying medicos, will head the city's chapter of the National Aeronautics association, for the ensuing year. He was elected president last night when the chapter held a meeting at the Fairway.

James R. Harrington was named vice president, Norman K. Kann, secretary, and Thomas R. Jones, treasurer. Fifty members of the chapter from Mansfield, Loudonville, Ashland, Galion and Shelby, attended the meeting.

Walter Shuey, flight instructor and manager of the Ashland airport, was named head of a program committee to work out plans for following meetings. Experts on various phases of aviation, such as weather conditions, navigation, cross country flights, and the major causes of accidents, will be invited to Mansfield to speak at meetings.

Air shows for next summer at the Mansfield airport were also planned. The next meeting of the chapter will be held in Mansfield Dec. 7, to hear an expert on weather conditions and forecasting.

HALF OF BOND ISSUES CARRY

School Tax Levies Generally Passed; Ohio Drys Record Nearly 50 Victories.

(By Associated Press)

Virtually half the bond issues submitted to Ohio voters in Tuesday's election received their approval. School tax levies carried generally while other levies were successful in a 2-to-1 ratio.

In local option elections, substantially more than half the communities thus voting approved the sale of liquor and beer. Significantly, however, the drys registered nearly 50 victories and all but three of these were in previously wet territory.

Though 26 of 28 school tax levies, earmarked for operating expenses, construction or other improvements, were approved, only 16 school bond issues passed. Levies intended for other than school purposes, carried in 36 localities and lost in 14 others.

Twenty-two of 45 representative bond issues carried. The largest, a proposed $4,500,000 Cuyahoga county issue for highway and bridge purposes, was rejected. It received a 63 percent favorable vote while 65 percent was required.

Dayton, where schools have been closed since Oct. 30 because of financial difficulties, defeated a two-mill tax levy for school purposes. It fell short of a simple majority though requiring a 65 percent approval.

In Richland county the sale of liquor and beer was approved in the only two local option elections, in Springfield and Cass townships.

Of the two bond issues, the Union school district $75,900 building plan was defeated, and a $14,000 Butler township proposal for a township building passed.

One levy—that for care of indigent tuberculosis patients—passed. Another, in Troy township for operating funds, was defeated.

JOE MOTT INVITES HUNTERS AGAIN—THIS TIME IN POETRY

SHELBY — Free hunting, free dinner and the guarantee of a full game bag is the offer which Joseph Mott, farmer of near Shelby, is making to sportsmen again this year.

Mott astounded the hunting fraternity last year by inviting them to roam over his land, answer his dinner bell and shoot his chickens if necessary to fill their game bags.

Hundreds responded. They weren't disappointed. When their numbers became so great they were crowding the Mott farm, he persuaded some of his neighbors to throw open their fields and woods.

With the approach of the rabbit and pheasant season Nov. 15, Mott today penned the following "Invitation to Hunters."

"The hunting season is near at hand
"My annual experience to hunters I extend
"There are plenty of rabbits and pheasants, too,
"If you want to hunt it is up to you.
"When you get the limit that will be fine
"And the extra ones ought to be mine.
"I am sorry, too, my chickens are small,
"But we will have soup and sandwiches for one and all
"Because the good wife is still able
"To put the good food on the table.
"I hear you say, 'can you afford to feed all the men?'
"But I am like the Italian vendor who said,
"'What you lose on the peanut
"'You make up on the banan'.'"
"Now I did not do this for money or fame,
"But I wanted my friends to hunt some game.
"Then my good friend Ramey got an inspiration
"And went and broadcast my invitation.
"And he spread the news like a forest fire
"And when hunters heard of the conflagration
"They sent me a lot of congratulations.
"Now to my good, kind neighbors a word of praise,
"And I pray God will bless them always.
"I am growing old and not able the fields to roam,
"So again I write you to hunt at my home
"For perhaps by this time next fall
"I will have answered the last roll call
"And gone on to the happy hunting grounds."

—"JOE MOTT."

HUGE MAJORITY 'ONE FOR BOOKS' SURVEY SHOWS

Cooper's 71-County Victory in '28 Closest to Present New Record.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The atlas-like feat of carrying 77 of Ohio's 88 counties appeared today to have set a record for John W. Bricker as political second-guessers sought explanation for Tuesday's avalanche of Republican votes.

Not in recent times has a candidate for governor garnered the huge majority of counties that the Republican standard-bearer won in defeating Charles Sawyer, Democrat.

The best accomplishment in recent records was that of Myers Y. Cooper, who carried 71 counties in the Republican landslide of 1928, when he was elected governor.

George White carried 69 to become governor in the Democratic landslide of 1932.

Surpass Plurality.

Several gubernatorial candidates, however, have surpassed Bricker's plurality of 116,983 votes. Complete unofficial returns gave: Bricker 1,263,678, Sawyer 1,146,695.

Robert A. Taft carried 78 counties as the Republicans elected their first U. S. senator in Ohio since 1928. His achievement was topped, though, by the late Simeon D. Fess, who received pluralities in 81 counties in the senatorial race of 1928.

Taft's plurality Tuesday was 170,931 votes as final unofficial returns gave him a total of 1,255,279 to 1,084,348 for Robert J. Bulkley, New Deal senator.

Counties carried by Sawyer were Belmont, Brown, Cuyahoga, Holmes, Jefferson, Mahoning, Monroe, Pike, Pickaway, Summit and Tuscarawas. Bulkley carried the same counties, with the exception of Holmes and Tuscarawas, but added Mercer to the list.

Political observers said many things could have been responsible for the great political shakeup in which Republicans also filled all major state offices at stake; won 15 of the 24 seats in Ohio's congressional delegation; captured 100 of the 136 places in the Ohio house of representatives and 28 of the 35 positions in the state senate, placed two judges on the Ohio supreme court in four contests, and won six out of nine district court of appeal judgeships.

Ask These Questions.

While sentiment against the New Deal generally was conceded to have helped the Republicans immensely, the political analysts sought answers to these questions:

What was the effect of Bricker's charges that an alliance of CIO members and communists backed Sawyer to help John L. Lewis, national CIO chieftain, set up a "dictatorship" in Ohio?

Did the failure of old age pensioners to get their October checks before election day influence their vote? (The checks were held up because of a dispute between the Democratic state and national administrations.)

To what extent did the refusal of Gov. Martin L. Davey, Democratic governor, to help Sawyer hurt the Democratic candidates?

How many Davey followers threw their support to Bricker? (Sawyer charged that Davey made a "deal" with the Republican candidate, a charge quickly denied by Bricker) and

Did findings of the senate graft-hunting committee involving members of the Davey administration arouse the voters to give the Republicans control of the state government, especially since the Republicans promised a "cleanup?"

FAIR ENOUGH!

Calm and Reason Often Forgotten In Propaganda Attacks On Neighbors

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Those who grew up in certain parts of the middle west in the first 15 years or so of this century have first-hand knowledge of religious intolerance and generalized hatred and slander. The Catholics were the victims then and, of many publications devoted to the incitement of evil belief about them, the most savage and ruthless was a weekly called the Menace, which was published in Aurora, Mo.

The Menace had a large circulation, and there came occasional rows in country towns and even in some of the cities over attempts to place the Menace on the reading tables of the public libraries and attempts by the Catholics to exclude it as a scurrilous and defamatory publication.

The Catholics, as taxpayers, were unwilling to entertain such attacks on their religious faith and slanders on the chastity of their mothers, wives and sisters in tax-supported libraries. The anti-Catholics replied that the Catholics were trying to suppress the truth and attack the freedom of the press.

There were lecturers on the loose, usually calling themselves Reverend This or That, who would discuss from the pulpits of Protestant churches and in public hall and tents a deep and mysterious conspiracy against the safety and sovereignty of the country by which the Pope was to be enthroned in the White House. Normally calm and reasonable Americans of fair intelligence would permit themselves to be whipped into a state of rage and alarm by fantastic lies, delivered as solemn fact, to the effect that every Catholic church was an armory and arsenal and that the Catholics were only awaiting the night when they would get the word from Rome to steal out and slay their neighbors in their sleep.

* * *

Even worse were the innuendoes about the mysteries of the confessional and shocking conduct in the convents. Against such propaganda, the Catholics could only appeal to the reason of their neighbors and let the daily life and conduct of themselves and their clergy stand as their defense. But it was very trying, because the propagandists were grossly ignorant and wicked professionals without other means of support.

A particularly strong count in the campaign was the charge of internationalism. Catholics were accused of giving allegiance to the Pope in political as well as spiritual matters and were said to be unpatriotic to this or any other country of which they were citizens. There was a way of saying that a man was a Catholic which conveyed the meaning that he was—well, after all. A Catholic candidate for office was voted down because of his religion and all that that meant to people who had heard and believed the propaganda.

* * *

As a natural reaction Catholics would support men of their faith without particular regard for their fitness. They were driven together.

Among the documents in circulation was a fake version of the oath of the Knights of Columbus, which, nevertheless, found many credulous believers, like the fraudulent so-called protocols of the elders of Zion which are used in cycles of time and passion to arouse similar suspicion and hatred of the Jews.

There were also "confessions" of persons who claimed to have been priests and nuns, and these, too, were influential in creating bitterness and doubtless will be used again. For such writings apparently never die, and all such movements are attended by sales of documents which appeal to the pruriency of low people and permit them to indulge an appetite for obscenity in the guise of revelation.

* * *

Such campaigns take strange slants, and by an odd quirk the Masons are now condemned, suppressed and persecuted in Italy and Germany on the ground that they, too, in their brotherhood with the Masons of other lands, are divided in allegiance, unreliable and unpatriotic.

The wounds heal readily once agitators cease to exasperate them. People forget suspicion and beliefs against their neighbors which have no basis in their own experience with them but are derived only from oratory and writings. And the victims are glad to settle down again to normal relations. But the waves rise and fall—rise and fall for some fathomless reason deep in the nature of man.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Doug Fairbanks, jr., is getting more like senior every day. . . . Latest indication: that brick-red suit he's been wearing.

Inter-office memo of the week: "The production formerly known as 'Secret Service of the Air,' later titled 'Secret Service In the Air,' has been finally titled 'Secret Service of the Air'." . . .

Barbara Stanwyck, who never went to college, is a sorority girl. . . . Athene, supposed to be first and only sorority for working girls, has been one of Stanwyck's off-screen pets for a couple of years. . . . Barbara established it, contributes generously. . . . Chapter is getting under way in Chicago.

If Joan Bennett turned brunet permanently—as she does with a wig for "Trade Winds"—the screen would have two Hedy Lamarrs. . . . Which wouldn't be too many, or would it?

Tyrone Power, hailed as a screen lover, has gone through two big pictures without getting the girl. . . . Both in "Marie Antoinette" and "Suez" he worships from afar. . . . In "Jesse James" he gets the girl—and a baby—but he also gets a bullet.

* * *

Gladys Swarthout (now working in "Ambush," her first non-singie) says she wishes that tomato scene had been left in her last picture, "Romance In the Dark." . . . After she actually took the tomatoes in the face, in full view of press and photographers, you can't blame her for being sore.

Horror movies, thanks to twin-bill revivals of "Dracula" and "Frankenstein," are "in" again. . . . Boris Karloff will be busy soon on "The Return of Dr X."

Humphrey Bogart, a big bad plainsman from the Broadway stage, made his movie-western debut eight years ago as the villain in a George O'Brien hoss op'ry. . . . In order to look at least capable of menacing the Bulky O'Brien, Bogart had to wear high heels. . . . Now back in the saddle again for "The Oklahoma Kid," Bogart needs no heels to bully the hero. . . . It's not-so-tall Cagney.

* * *

The show world's most famous telegram sender, Flo Ziegfeld, sent his last to Bert Lahr. . . . Lahr was playing at the time in Ziegfeld's "Hotcha," and the producer, ill in Hollywood, heard that Lahr was doing some forbidden ad-libbing. . . . The wire instructed the comedian to stop it. . . . Lahr plans to give the memento to Billie Burke, Ziegfeld's widow.

Does this brunet Louise Campbell of "Men With Wings" remind anybody else of Helen Hayes?... Folks hereabouts say she talks like Jean Arthur, anyway.

Annabella (just Annabella) clicked in "Suez"—and you could understand every word she said—but she isn't being renewed at 20th Century-Fox. . . . Scarcity of likely parts for her here is the reason.

It had to happen: There's to be a "Girlstown" movie.

Peter Holden, Broadway's boy wonder of "On Borrowed Time," is carrying on in Hollywood, in "The Great Man Votes." . . . Garson Kanin, directing, was trying to explain to Peter, in simple 8-year-old terms, how he should speak certain lines. . . . "Just throw them away—say them as if you didn't care much—" and so on. . . .

"Oh," said Peter, "you mean 'casually,' don't you, sir?"

Fiancee's Family Dislike Him

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I went with a certain girl about a year ago, and for three months her mother made no objections. Then all of a sudden she made a big fuss, so we met on the sly. Before I knew it, my girl had written and told me I mustn't visit her any more. I was nearly distracted, and tried to get in touch with her by writing and phoning, but never could get any satisfactory answer. All she would say was her mother objected.

We were very much in love, and I still love her, but I don't know what has turned them against me. A week ago her young brother asked me over to help him with something. I went and the girl was sitting in the library reading, but when she saw me she left the room, and returned soon after. I noticed she was wearing the engagement ring I had given her, although she is now going with another boy. Have I any chance of getting her back?

PAT.

Unless the young lady is still in love with you, and is wearing your ring in the hope her mother will relent and consent to the engagement again, it seems to me rather questionable taste for her to wear your ring and accept attention from other men.

Let's hope it's the former reason. Remember that being true to a girl will very often wear away parental objections. As the brother asked you to the house, perhaps they're beginning to believe you're all right.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"THANK you for the invitation Mary," I said. "Of course, you're going with us." "And I shall be glad to accept. In fact, you couldn't keep me away."

Boys Thrilled.

"Gee!" Her brothers breathed the tribute together as their eyes went over her in prideful admiration.

"That's some swell outfit, Mary" Hank commented.

"Thanks a lot, darlings," she said. "I needed that to pep me up. And let me give you a tip. If you can sling the blarney like that, you'll have the key to the heart of any woman you fancy. I didn't know you had it in you. I'm proud of you."

Tactfully, she turned away from their palpable embarrassment, and looked me over critically.

"Auntie Madge, there's something the matter with the combination of your hair and your hat," she said. "I don't know what it is, but it doesn't click. C ome over into my room, and I'll try my luck with a few hairpins. Don't chew your fingernails, boys. We'll be right back."

I guessed her criticism was but a ruse to get me alone, and she confirmed my conjecture as soon as we were safely inside her door.

"Of course, you know that's all poppycock about your hat and your hair," she said, "and my humble apologies for even pretending a criticism before the boys. But I just had to see you, for I want to find out just how we're going to work Noel into this program. Poor darling! I suppose he's walking the floor, wondering why I don't put in an appearance."

"No, he isn't," I returned placidly. "Of course, he's longing to see you, but I made it very plain to him that he was 'to expect you when he saw you,' not before. He said he would put in the time catching up with some badly-needed sleep, so—"

Back To Hotel?

"So," she finished saucily, "my true love's pounding his ear instead of tearing his heartstrings into tatters. Well! 'tis better so, but that being the case, what's the matter with our coming back to the hotel after we get the boys off on the train, and putting in an hour ar two on some hard licks for the play?"

"There's nothing the matter with it," I said, and was afraid that my voice held a note of sharpness.

I could sympathize with her fear that Philip Veritzen meant to "double cross" her at some rehearsal before long, and could realize how fierce was her determination to do an answering "double cross" in the fashion I had planned for her. I meant to have her rehearse at first in the stilted, diabolically-planned fashion in which he had drilled her, and then, at the first hint that she faced his dropping her from the cast, I had planned for her to break loose in the interpretation which I, as the author of the play, had deemed best for the role. But even though I was flattered at her devotion to my program, I could not help feeling a sentimental disappointment at her attitude toward her coming reunion with her husband.

Bathing Best Beauty Treatment

By MME. QUI VIVE

Miss Tubby carries a fresh, dainty look. She is a demon for bathing. She has found out that there's as much skin loveliness to be attained by the free, generous use of water as by the more expensive method of toting home purchases from cosmetic counters. No that she doesn't use the fragrant creams and lotions, too. Oh mercy, yes.

It is the cheapest, most satisfactory beauty rite heretofore discovered. Girls who stand under a shower for half a minute, use soap sparingly will please pause and consider. And then reform.

You can find in a bath tub what you cannot find elsewhere and that is a form of relaxation that has a soothing effect upon the entire musculature of the body. It has been said that the poet Rostand, bursting with ideas when writing "L'Aiglon" and beset by troublesome friends, took refuge in his bath tub, wrote there all the day long. We wouldn't suggestion such a prolonged soaking either for the sake of the mind or the body. But anyone can indulge in the pleasure, luxury and delicious indolence of fifteen minutes in the grand old tub, and reap beauty profits.

For relaxation the water of the bath should not be warmer than the temperature of the skin. Hot baths are depleting but they are marvelously effective for doing away with the marks of tan and sunburn that remain on the back and shoulders for months.

Regular daily bathing overcomes sluggish circulation. By stimulating the circulation it aids the work of the intestinal tract.

For quick refreshment the cold shower is recommended. It should be followed by a brisk rub down, and a tonic friction is pleasant. On cosmetic counters you will find delightful preparations that impart fragrance. The wise girl won't overlook the benefits of perspiration cures. They're necessary all the year round.

Piquant Flavors Appeal

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

TODAY WE tempt you with a batch of recipes for tangy, piquant dishes, any and all of which are guaranteed to lend an extra zip to your menus and to perk up dull appetites.

Deviled crabs might be the answer to your problem for something especially nice for tonight's dinner. Quarter cup butter, three tablespoons flour, two tablespoons prepared mustard, one-half teaspoon paprika, pinch of nutmeg, pinch of cayenne pepper, pinch pepper, one cup milk, two cups crab flakes, one-half teaspoon salt, two tablespoons chopped parsley, tablespoon lemon juice and one-half cup buttered cracker crumbs will fill eight crab shells. Melt butter and seasonings. Stir thoroughly and add milk. Cook (stirring constantly) until the mixture thickens. Remove from flame and add crab meat, salt, parsley and lemon juice. Mix well and put the mixture into crab shells. Sprinkle with buttered cracker crumbs and brown in 350 degrees F. oven. Garnish with parsley before serving.

Belgian eggs and shrimps make one of our very special Sunday supper dishes. We use a tablespoon butter, tablespoon minced parsley, teaspoon dry mustard, one-half teaspoon salt, teaspoon paprika, few grains cayenne pepper, one can shrimps, six chopped hard-boiled eggs, one-half pint heavy cream and some grated cheese. Melt butter in skillet, add parsley, seasonings and prepared shrimps. Heat thoroughly, add chopped eggs and cream; cook two minutes. Pour into casserole dish. Cover with grated cheese and brown lightly in oven

"Pet" Meat Loaf.

Every cook has her own favorite meat loaf recipe, so we feel bold to come out with our pet formula. It calls for one and one-half pounds ground veal, one pound ground beef and three-quarters ground pork, one egg, one-quarter teaspoon paprika, one and one-quarter teaspoons onion salt, one-half teaspoon celery salt, one and one-half teaspoons poultry seasoning, teaspoon salt, one-quarter cup milk and one tablespoon prepared mustard. Mix veal, beef and pork. Beat the egg lightly and add to it the remaining ingredients. Mix well into meat and form a loaf. Spread the outside with prepared mustard and cover with a can of tomato puree. Bake in 400 degree F oven for an hour, basting occasionally.

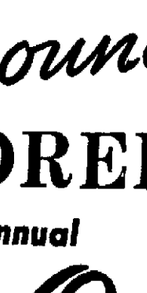
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHO HAS THE QUEEN?

A LENGTH-SHOWING suit bid or bids by one defender indicates more than mere shortness in that suit by his partner. It betokens probable length for the partner in any other suit and therefore serves as a guide to the correct way of playing your own trump suit in order to catch the outstanding queen in a finesse.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South's opening bid on this deal was 1 Spade. West overcalled with 3-Clubs. North bid 3-Spades. South 4-Clubs. West 5-Clubs. North 5-Spades and South 6-Spades.

West led the club K and South won with the A. His only problem then was how to handle the trump suit in order to assure no loss there, as the Diamond A had to be given up. Declarer decided to play for the breaks in trumps, so laid down the A. When he then led to the K, he realized his mistake, as the Q was bound to win.

Declarer had a possible clue to the trump distribution because of West's repeated club bids. If he held as many clubs as his bids indicated, he naturally was short in other suits. Hence, South should have led to the spade K and then finessed the 9.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable).

After the lead of the spade Q. how should South play for 6-Diamonds?

Cranberry Warning

Over-cooking cranberry sauces and jellies will bring out strong undesirable flavors and may prevent the mixture from jelling.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Nov. 11.

Some decidedly arresting circumstances may bring high activities to a standstill on this day, according to the predominant sidereal operations. Illness, bereavement, sorrow or some other distressing development may temporarily bring about a static situation. There also are signs of enmity, jealousy, contention and wrangling, with recklessness and impetuosity adding to the unhappy state of affairs.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which their cherished activities and ambitions may come to a standstill, possibly by sickness, grief or the loss of a friend. This has angles of menace through jealousy, enmity, strife and rash and impulsive manifestations to add to the distress and stagnation of the interests. Be cautious, patient, hopeful.

A child born on this day may have a rather cross-grained nature, with much conflict of emotions and behavior. It may be sensitive, fault-finding and contemplative, at the same time having wayward and inflammatory impulses.

New Ham Flavor

Here is a new flavor suggestion: Spread a little prepared mustard on sliced smoked ham then cover with strained honey and sprinkle with a little powdered cloves and cinnamon. Broil or bake until ham is very tender.

WIDE UPSWING IN INDUSTRIAL OHIO STARTED

State Quick to Reflect Trend of Business Heading Toward National Recovery.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—Mass rehiring of Detroit automobile workers has inspired an upturn in highly industrial Ohio—where it has been said that depressions begin first and end soonest—which may exceed the Michigan spurt and point the way to a general national recovery.

The uptrend in Ohio—only state in the nation having eight cities of more than 100,000 population—is traced in steel, rubber and glass, necessities of the gigantic automobile industry, frequent barometer of the ups and downs of business.

Joining in the upturn which takes its cue from Detroit, are the highly industrial cities of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus, Toledo, Akron and Youngstown.

The Fisher Body company, largest manufactory in this city, expects to add 300 production workers in the next fortnight to the 2,700 employed now. Fisher here in top times employs as many as 8,500.

Steel Takes Spurt.

Youngstown, in the General Motors step-up in Michigan, sees promise of continued record steel production. Production there has risen from the low 40s to the high 50s in a few short weeks even without that stimulus.

Men who worked only one and two days weekly in Youngstown earlier this year now are back, generally, to a four and five-day schedule.

Toledo plants, which always have been closely linked with Michigan motor making, by nature and geography, already have felt the upturn.

The Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company, in Toledo, pioneer maker of safety glass, has recalled 325 workers in it Toledo and suburban Rossford plants. The Electric Auto-Lite company, which holds important Chrysler contracts, has reported a near 100-daily increase for two weeks, with a total of 3,200 working now.

The Toledo Chevrolet plant has boosted its force 20 per cent recently.

Auto Gain Steady.

And the United Automobile Workers, CIO affiliate, in Toledo have reported a daily average of 100 members returning to work in 26 automotive plants.

At Cincinnati, General Motors' Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants in suburban Norwood expect important employment increases. Chevrolet officials said that their production schedule for November was larger than for any other month of 1938.

In Columbus, workmen are being recalled in large numbers at the Timken Roller Bearing company. The D. L. Auld company, an automobile-accessory manufacturer, which makes hub caps, fender trims and other necessities for General Motors cars, has increased its payroll.

At Warren, O., a city of 40,000 between Cleveland and Youngstown, the Packard Electric division of General Motors has doubled its working force, in anticipation of increased auto production.

Want to Know Why You're Constipated?

Would you give a million to shake off that dull, dopey, played-out feeling that often comes with common constipation? Then stop a minute and think.

What have you had to eat this week? Just meat, bread, eggs, potatoes? Probably the reason you're constipated is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean how much you eat. It means a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines which helps a bowel movement.

What to do? Eat some Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. This crunchy toasted cereal is not only rich in "bulk"—it also contains both the intestinal tonic vitamin B_1 and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day and drink plenty of water. See if you don't get off your heels and on your toes! Kellogg's All-Bran is sold by every grocer

U. S. Drinks 2 Quarts of Wine Per Person; France 45 Gallons.

WASHINGTON —(NS)— Statistics reveal that America's wine consumption last year was about two quarts per person. This is only two per cent of the per capita wine consumption of France, where the average is 45 gallons per person annually.

"DOUBLE" TRIPLED

NOWATA, Okla.—(UP)—After a visit to the courthouse here, Walter Vogel of Vinita saw some truth in the contention that "every man has his double." Three persons slapped him on the back and addressed him as "Guy Price," he said.

SMALL NATIONS FEAR HITLER'S 'DOMINATION'

Central, Southeastern Sectors of Europe Develop Nerves Over Economic March.

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

BUDAPEST—Countries of central and southeastern Europe which lie in the path of Fuehrer Hitler's politico-economic march to the Black Sea are in a shocking state of nerves and in some instances actual dread.

Having seen German troops goosestepping across dismembered Czechoslovakia, these small states are fearful lest their own sovereignty may be in danger ultimately, not through annexation but because of fierce political control which would in effect make them vassals of the reich.

This panicky feeling is due largely to the fact that no great power has announced its championship of little fellows living on the sunrise side of Germany. France and England have withdrawn behind the Rhine so to speak, and the Russian bear is quiet.

None In Path.

This being the case there is no big nation to stand in the way of Hitler's drive to the east to establish German domination. He can pretty well plant his flag where he pleases.

It isn't that small countries are hostile to Germany. They are friendly enough, speaking in general terms but they naturally don't want to lose their independence. The fate of Czechoslovakia casts a heavy shadow across lands from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

So far as the economic angle is concerned all these nations want to trade extensively with Germany. As a matter of fact they would have to even if they did not want to. They are too small to buy each other's products which are largely agricultural and their only big customer is the fatherland on which they depend for absorption of a great percentage of their output.

The quid pro quo is that they buy German goods. Actually, Nazi-land trades a great deal on the barter system—I will swap my motorcars for your wheat.

This whole setup gives rise to the general expectation that Hitler will try to form customs officials with all countries in question. That is, there would be trade pacts providing for favored nation treatment to the virtual exclusion of all outside countries.

This would hit American trade, among others, a fairly sharp blow, especially in such items as motorcars and typewriters. For example, virtually every automobile I saw in Rumania recently was of American make.

It is but a step from such sweeping economic control to political overlordship, and that is what small countries are shivering over. They realize Hitler can apply tremendous pressure if he sees fit. Hungary is particularly anxious, lying as she does up against the reich.

Buys Bulk of Exports.

Hungary sells the bulk of its exports to Germany. The latter country, if it chose, for any reason, easily could apply pressure by cutting such imports, and experts here tell me, such a cessation of trade would bankrupt this country.

Because of all such potentialities in this historic upheaval small countries are rushing against time to try and create some sort of bombproof shelter for their independence. This doesn't represent a move hostile to Germany but merely protective action.

At this writing effort is being made to form a defensive chain of countries from the Baltic to the Mediterranean. This entente, as projected, would include at least Poland, Rumania, Hungary and Yugoslavia and every effort will be made to secure Mussolini's adhesion to the bloc or at least his moral support since the scheme is not intended to challenge the Rome-Berlin axis in any way.

This plan explains in part the desire of Hungary to secure Ruthenia from Czechoslovakia. It also is said to explain Poland's support of Hungarian claims. Hungarian possession of Ruthenia would create a common frontier between Poland and Hungary whereas now these two countries are separated by this narrow strip of the Carpathians, cut across Ruthenia. It's almost axiomatic that he who holds the Carpathians controls aggression.

Girl Gives Fund To Teach Parents Of Blind Babies

LANSING, Mich.—(INS)—Blind since childhood, Roberta Griffith, Grand Rapids, donated $2,000 to the Michigan School for the Blind as a foundation fund for a school for the parents of blind babies.

The nursery would care for the infants as well as provide training for parents in instructing their babies correctly, School Superintendent Josef G. Kauffman said.

"The mother must teach her child how to play, and avoid conduct habits that blindness so frequently induces," Kauffman added. "Miss Griffith, because she has been blind since the age of three, knows too well the problems of a blind child."

An average of 30 babies are born blind in Michigan each year, Kauffman said.

FILIPINO LABOR TO FIGHT 'ISMS'

Organizations Join Movement Condemning Fascism, 'Red' Practices in Island.

(By United Press)

MANILA, P. I.—Fifty-nine Filipino labor organizations have joined in a resolution condemning any movement toward Fascism or Communism in the Philippines.

Nearly 1,000 labor delegates from points throughout the islands met in Manila to hold the "First Anti-Communist Labor Conference."

The delegates heard Secretary of Labor Ramon Torres warn against Communistic activity. A message was read from President Manuel L. Quezon, reiterating the administration's desire to establish better working conditions throughout the islands.

As the convention adjourned, all delegates signed the following pledge:

"As a laborer, I stand for an intelligent, sound and constructive labor movement which recognizes the constituted authorities and obeys the laws. I will join . . . the labor organizations with constructive and progressive principles, whose leaders are not afraid to fight for the laborers' rights and are brave enough to defend the laborers against abuses.

"I abhor Communism and Fascism, the first as the precursor of commotion, destruction and revolution, the instigator of class hatred, and the second as the forerunner of popular slavery and military tyranny.

"I therefore pledge myself to fight to the utmost Communism and Fascism as principles violating human rights, as enemies of society, as institutions inimical and subversive to anything democratic."

Englsh women are much disturbed because the Dyers Federation has decided only 12 standard shades of silk stockings shall be available instead of hundreds.

ASKS RECEIVER FOR NIGHT CLUB

Part Owner Seeks Liquidation of Assets of Merry-Go-Round.

A petition seeking appointment of a receiver for the Merry-Go-Round night club on North Main street and liquidation of the assets of the establishment, had been filed in common pleas court today by G. A. Panagiotopoulos, part owner.

The action was against R. J. Brown, administrator of the estate of John Nick, deceased, who was the other partner in the business, and Nick Poulos who claims an interest in the equipment in the building.

The plaintiff asks that the court require Poulos to set up his interest in the business and that a receiver be named to liquidate the business which is not profitable, the petition states.
